Cholera Is Menace in Turkey

Count 2,300 Dead, New Jolts Feared

ERZURUM, Turkey (AP) — Two new earth shocks today struck dazed and rubble towns of eastern Turkey, where the government launched the massive campaign to fight hunger and disease among thousands of refugees from last week's killer earthquake.

The new temblors caused little damage and no casualties to add to the toll from Friday's disastrous quake—2,300 bodies counted, with estimates 3,000 may have died. But the shocks spread fear and panic among the people, many sleeping in the open.

ERZURUM, Turkey (AP) — The Turkish government, with help from around the world, made massive efforts today to fight disease and hunger among hundreds of thousands of survivors of Friday's earthquake in eastern Turkey.

A major menace was a cholera epidemic raging across the border in Iraq. Nineteen provinces near Iraq were declared "critical zones" because of the disease. Neighboring Syria closed its borders with Iraq to prevent cholera spreading there.

2,300 More Injured

For the peasants, however, the main fear was not disease but a recurrence of the quake that may have left many more than the estimated 3,000 dead in this rugged hinterland. Search crews have counted 2,300 bodies and at least 2,300 were injured.

Having experienced two successive days of tremors after the initial quake, the peasants continued to sleep in the open fields, under cone-shaped tents or wrapped in home-made blankets.

Health Minister Edip Somunoglu ordered mass inoculations against typhoid and told local health officials to add chlorine to drinking water.

Bodies uncovered from debris were being buried as soon as possible, often even before identification.

Some survivors asked for picks and shovels to dig out their dead relatives, later wrapping the corpses in bed sheets and squatting around them in tears for hours.

Corcoran Resigns As Head of KTA; Usticke Elected

Resignation of Robert J. Corcoran as president of the Kingston Teachers' Association, was announced after a meeting held at the John F. Kennedy School. He will be succeeded by Gordon W. Usticke, a teacher in the Kingston City School system the last three years.

Usticke was unanimously elected by the executive board of KTA to fill Corcoran's unexpired term of office.

Corcoran's resignation was prompted by his recent appointment to the principalship of the Meagher School. The executive board in accepting Corcoran's resignation, paid tribute to him for his many achievements while serving the Kingston Teachers Association.

Parents Pamper Girl; 'Just Wants to Forget'

WATERVLIET, N. Y. (AP) — "I just want to forget that time I got lost," says 7-year-old Debra Smith, who wandered alone for nearly 48 hours in a Catskill Mountain forest.

Meanwhile, the parents of the slender, long-haired girl, Air Force Staff Sgt. and Mrs. John R. Smith, pampered Debra today out of happiness for her safe return with only scratches and a worsened cold to show for her ordeal.

The Smiths went to church Sunday in this city, near Albany, to "thank God for the miracle" that their daughter had been found alive and well Saturday.

Debra had set out to follow a chipmunk Thursday and vanished, setting off a search by about 600 state troopers and civilian and Air Force volunteers.

She disappeared during a family picnic at the Catskill Game Farm and was found five miles away, near a ledge atop 3,000-foot-high North Mountain.

"I'm all right Daddy," were her first words to her father, who was on vacation from Andrews Air Force Base, Md., where he is stationed.

"Don't cry, Daddy. I'm the same Debbie you lost."

After a doctor declared her in good condition, her parents brought her here to the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Raymond J. Cheney, whom the Smiths were visiting.

"She's very, very well and very brave and resourceful," said the admiring grandmother Sunday, describing how the girl had attempted to rub two sticks together to make a fire in the 40-degree nighttime temperature.

When the sticks wouldn't light, Mrs. Cheney said, she (Continued on Page 8, Col. 2)

Oldest Covered Type in State Wilson Vows Effort On Funds for Span

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Ulster County said today that he will make every possible effort to obtain State funds needed to preserve the Perrine's Bridge in the Town of Rosendale.

Built in 1850, the Perrine's Bridge is the oldest covered bridge in New York State and is considered a unique historical landmark.

The Assemblyman said he hoped that the funds could be made available under the proposed $200 million Outdoor Recreation Development Bond Act which will appear as Proposition One on the ballot November 8.

Hurley Directed To Issue Permit For Housing Unit

The "stop-gap" or "interim" zoning ordinance of the Town of Hurley, enacted September 17, 1964, has been declared invalid by Acting Supreme Court Judge George L. Cobb of Greene County, and the court directs that a permit be issued to Milton and Marvin Gordon and Tanglewood Lodge Inc., for the erection of 26 four-family housing units in the town of Hurley.

Decision by Judge Cobb also dismisses an application of a temporary injunction which was brought by the Town of Hurley to prevent the erection of the housing units at Tanglewood Lodge premises in the Town of Hurley.

There were two actions tried before Judge Cobb at the March trial term of Supreme Court where the Green County judge served as acting Supreme Court justice. The two matters were heard before Judge Cobb without a jury.

One action was brought by the Town of Hurley against Milton and Marvin Gordon and Tanglewood Lodge, Inc., all of Tanglewood Road, Town of Hurley, in which the Town of Hurley sought to enjoin the defendants from proceeding with the construction of 26 four-family housing units. The injunction was sought on the grounds that the construction was in violation of the zoning ordinance.

The second action was brought by Tanglewood Lodge, Inc., against Adam C. Geuss, as Multiple Dwelling Housing Inspector for the Town of Hurley and was in the nature of a mandamus to compel the respondent (Continued on Page 8, Col. 2)

LBj Plans Two More Weekends Buoyed by Success Of Upstate Swing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Buoyed by his weekend "non-political" swing into five states, President Johnson was back at his White House desk today with similar trips apparently in the offing.

Future travel plans have not been announced, but there was speculation the chief executive might be on the road the next two weekends.

Stopped at Ellenville

The first of these tours last weekend included a stopover Friday night at Ellenville, where the President dedicated the new Ellenville Community Hospital at the behest of Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick (D-Ellenville).

Crowds numbering about 125,000 lined up along the roadways and in the fields as the Presidential motorcade proceeded on its 34-mile route from Stewart Air Force Base in Newburgh to the hospital in the southern Ulster community.

First Since Roosevelt

It was the first ex-officio visit of a President to Ulster County since Franklin D. Roosevelt's election eve chats in Academy Green Park in Kingston back in the 1940's.

The Ellenville stop ended a day of touring by President Johnson throughout upstate New York, including visits to Buffalo and Syracuse.

The President capped his five-state tour with an address Sunday on Canadian soil. He said there is a real limit to power because the United States has the means of unlimited destruction "but we do not have the power alone to make peace."

He declared: "Only when those who pro- (Continued on Page 8, Col. 5)

Lauds Boy Scouts For Showing at Johnson Welcome

"The Boy Scouts made an excellent showing and were a credit to the Rip Van Winkle Council."

That's how Scout Executive Alex MacDonald today described the showing of 600 Scouts of the Rip Van Winkle Council Friday night at Ellenville's welcome to President Lyndon B. Johnson.

"We had a fine turnout from Ulster and Greene Counties in Ellenville," said MacDonald. "We were well represented and (Continued on Page 8, Col. 1)

SITE OF FATAL ACCIDENT—Circle indicates road area on Lafayette Avenue where Mary Ann Fay, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Fay, of Bohemia, L. I., was fatally injured when struck by a car Sunday afternoon. A police report on the mishap said the child ran from behind a parked car.

List Three Blazes as Incendiary

Three Sunday brush fires were said to be incendiary and local firemen checked fires in rubbish Sunday night and early today.

A call at 1:45 p. m. Sunday was for burning brush off Route 587 near Britt's Store, and two alarms were sounded at 3:50 p. m. from boxes at Smith Avenue and Grand Street and Cornell Street and Smith Avenue for a brush fire in the Athletic Field at the latter intersection.

It was found after a call at 8:20 p. m., Sunday for a brush fire at the rear of the Colony Liquor property that the fire was in the Town of Ulster and Ulster Hose Company was notified. Firemen found brush burning in two separate areas.

A call at 10:22 p. m. Sunday was for burning rubbish near 73 Franklin Street, and one at 3:39 a. m. today was for a rubbish fire near 60 Bruyn Avenue. The cause of both was listed as unknown.

This year, to date, local firemen have checked more than 50 fires listed as incendiary, and several of the brush fires were in areas where fires had been previously checked.

Lull Holds on Ground B52s Pound Bases Second Day in Row

SAIGON, (AP)—For the second straight day, giant Air Force B52 bombers from Guam struck twin blows at Communist bases in South Viet Nam today.

One formation of the stratofortresses bombarded a Viet Cong base only 45 miles east of Saigon.

Another wave of the eight-engined jets struck an enemy training and resupply camp 120 miles southwest of Saigon.

Terrorist Active

A lull continued in the ground fighting. Only small, scattered patrol actions were reported today.

In the city of Gia Dinh, near Saigon, a terrorist threw a grenade today at a military jeep, and four U.S. servicemen were wounded, none seriously. A Vietnamese woman passerby also was wounded. The terrorist escaped.

Sunday, B52s also hit two enemy target areas — a suspected Viet Cong division headquarters near the Cambodian border 65 miles northwest of Saigon, and a North Vietnamese troop concentration area two miles south of the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam.

Continue North Raids

While the B52s were hitting the Communists in the South, U.S. fighter-bombers continued their daily attacks on Communist supply and transport facilities in North Viet Nam Sunday, the U.S. military command reported today.

American pilots flew 102 missions over North Viet Nam Sunday, hitting at four missile sites around Hanoi, six oil storage depots and other targets.

Fliers reported they damaged three of the four surface-to-air missile sites attacked. One site was nine miles south of the North Vietnamese capital and another was 10 miles southwest of Hanoi.

The U.S. fliers also claimed (Continued on Page 8, Col. 7)

Think Cambodian Visit Could Open Viet Peace Steps

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said today French President Charles de Gaulle's scheduled visit to Cambodia might produce some first steps toward Viet Nam peace negotiations.

Darts From Behind Parked Car

One of 16 Persons To Die on Roads

Death of a Long Island child here in a car pedestrian mishap Sunday on Lafayette Avenue was among 26 accidental deaths in the state over the weekend.

A 33-year-old mother of four, who perished Sunday in the discharge from a shotgun her husband was handling was among them, and from 6 p. m. Friday to midnight Sunday, the Associated Press reported, 16 persons died on the state's highways. Three were drowned, two died in a boating accident, four in other type mishaps, including two in a plane crash.

42nd for County

The death in Kingston was the 42nd in the county, to date, this year from traffic mishaps.

The death of the L.I. child was the 11th in Ulster County as the result of traffic accidents this month.

Ulster County recorded its 1965 42nd highway traffic death on Nov. 11, 1965.

Two-year-old Mary Ann Fay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Fay, of Bohemia, L. I., police said, was fatally injured when she ran from behind a parked car near 45 Lafayette Avenue into the path of a car driven by Robert Palmatier, 27, of Box 188, Route 3, Kingston, who was headed toward Lucas Avenue.

The child was pronounced dead on arrival at the Benedictine Hospital. Coroner William S. Keyser said death was accidental and was due to multiple skull fractures and brain lacerations. The funeral is to be held Wednesday in Sayville, L. I.

Port Ewen Man 12th Victim on Roads in Month

A Port Ewen man was pronounced dead on arrival at Kingston Hospital after a Hurley Avenue accident this morning and his death was the 43rd in the county, to date in the year involving motor vehicles.

May Have Been Stricken

Police indicated Lewis LeRoy Myers, 71, of 211 Bowne Street, could have been seized with an attack at the time of the mishap on Hurley Avenue near Coffey Place, as the car he drove a trailer truck and a parked car became involved.

Coroner William S. Keyser withheld his report on the probable cause of death pending completion of an autopsy this afternoon.

The death was the 12th this month in which motor vehicles were involved, and the death was the second road fatality in two days in the city. Mary Ann Fay, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Fay, of Bohemia, L. I., was fatally injured in a Lucas Avenue mishap Sunday.

Today's mishap was reported at 10:15 a. m.

Police said Myers was driving east on Hurley Avenue when the car he drove moved to the left and hit wheels on the left side of a trailer truck, driven by Frank Felicello, of Newburgh. The truck in apparently attempting to avoid hitting the Myers car, (Continued on Page 6, Col. 3)

Fish Criticizes Silence of Dems On Aged Benefits

POUGHKEEPSIE — Hamilton Fish, Jr., Republican candidate for Congress today charged Democrat Congressman, Joseph Y. Resnick and the Johnson Administration with "running out" on the senior citizens of the United States.

Inflationary Great Society spending is proving to be particularly burdensome on our senior citizens, many of whom are struggling to make ends meet with their State pensions and Social Security allotments," Fish declared.

"The Johnson Administration," Fish continued, "which has given much lip service to the problems of the elderly has run out on these people by feeding the inflationary spiral with more and more government spending."

"Despite the 1965 seven per cent increase in pensions, the purchasing power of the pensioner's dollar has fallen below the level of 1958."

Fish noted, "that in 1965 the nearly 2 million senior citizens of New York State lost 1.7 billion dollars in purchasing power to inflation. Prices this year," the Republican candidate stated, "are rising at an even faster pace. As a result, the aged are quickly moving toward one of the most critical periods for their age group since the 1930's."

"The Democrat Congressman, Joseph Y. Resnick, has been noticeably silent on this issue," Fish declared. "Perhaps it is because his votes for Administration spending spree is partially to blame for this plight of our senior citizens."

This problem "is particularly acute in New York State, which has more senior citizens than any other state," Fish stated. "The only solution is for the Administration to hold the lid on Federal spending to curb inflation," Fish concluded.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Aug. 22, the 234th day of 1966. There are 131 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history. On this date in 1851, the first international yachting race was sailed around the Isle of Wight in the English Channel off the British mainland. It was won by the schooner America and the race has since been known as the "America's Cup."

On this date: In 1846, Santa Fe, New Mexico, was proclaimed American territory.

In 1910, Japan annexed Korea.

In 1928, Alfred E. Smith accepted the Democratic nomination for president.

In 1944, it was revealed U.S. Army planes based in the central Pacific had made their first raids on Yap Island in the Carolinas.

In 1945, Japan said 70,000 persons had been killed outright in the two U.S. atomic bomb raids on Hiroshima and Nagasaki and others were dying of injuries suffered in the blasts.

Ten years ago—President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon were renominated by unanimous vote at the Republican National Convention in San Francisco.

Five years ago—A New York lawyer, Lawrence Wien, signed a contract to purchase the Empire State Building for $65 million. This was believed to have been the highest price ever paid for a single building.

One year ago—A faulty electrical system on board the manned Gemini 3 space craft, launched the day before, was fixed and a smooth eight-day flight without further trouble seemed possible.

To Eliminate Wheat Diversion Programs

When the Department of Agriculture recently announced an increase in the 1967 wheat allotment, it was also noted that there would be no diversion program for 1967.

With the early planting season upon us, we'd like to call your attention to what this means to wheat producers. Under the 1966 program, a producer became eligible for program benefits only if he diverted an acreage representing a certain percentage of his allotment for which no diversion payment was made.

But, in 1967, a producer can plant his entire allotment—without any diversion—and be eligible for certificates and a price-support loan.

Since there's no diversion program for wheat for the 1967 crop, it is important for farmers with small wheat allotments who have been diverting all or part of their wheat allotment for payment of a certain percentage of his allotment for which no diversion payment was made.

Further details on this and other program provisions of the 1967 wheat program will be available from your ASCS County Committee.

Dogger Bank is an isolated shoal in the North Sea off the coast of England. It is 160 miles long, 60 miles wide and 50 feet below the surface of the sea at its highest point. A well-known fishing ground, it gets its name from the Dutch "dogger," meaning a trawler, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Proposal for 12th Cabinet Post Due In House Sessions

By EDMOND LE BRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal for a 12th Cabinet post — a secretary to head a new department of transportation — comes before the House this week.

Other congressional activity in sight for the next few days ranges from automobile safety to defense as members put the finishing touches on legislation already well advanced.

The House is expected to reach the transportation department bill Tuesday or Wednesday. A fight is brewing on the inclusion of the Maritime Administration in the new department. Important segments of the shipping industry want it to be an independent agency.

Conferees trying to adjust differences between Senate and House versions of legislation have a full schedule. Heading the list of bills they will be working on is the $58.2-billion defense appropriation. A major difference is the authority the Senate included for call-up of reservists if necessary.

The bill also is more than $500 million above President Johnson's budget recommendation. Conferees will get under way also on the twin safety bills — dealing with highways and automobile design. The House passed its versions of the two on successive days last week.

The Senate early in the week considers legislation to tighten regulation of financial institutions, and the House takes up a new program, already approved by the Senate, to make it easier for rural areas to organize and plan economic development.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen and administration leaders have reached a deadlock over open housing, which indicates there may be no civil rights bill passed this year.

Dirksen has notified Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach the administration can expect no help from him toward breaking what Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., predicted will be a "very strong filibuster" against the measure.

Katzenbach has insisted there must be an open housing provision in any bill that passes. Dirksen has called the proposal to ban racial discrimination in the sale and rental of housing unconstitutional. He has said House action to exempt home and small-apartment owners hasn't changed his stand.

Big GOP Gains Seen in House

BAR HARBOR, Maine (AP) — Rep. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., predicts that the GOP stand a good chance of gaining 40 or more House seats now occupied by Democrats.

Goodell, of Jamestown, along with House Minority Leader Gerald Ford, R-Mich., and Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif., made that estimate Saturday and added that the primary campaign issues would be inflation and increases in the cost of living.

Goodell charged that the Johnson administration had permitted the economy to become overheated and had failed to take corrective steps.

Child Abandonment, Murder Is Charged

ORISKANY, N.Y. (AP) — Karen Bakay, 20, of Bridgeport, Conn., was in Oneida County Jail today, awaiting further court action in the death of what police said was her infant girl, found in a gas station toilet.

Miss Bakay was arraigned Saturday before Peace Justice Stanley Wollanin of the town of Whitesboro on charges of first-degree murder and child abandonment. She asked for an examination, which was set for Friday.

She was ordered held in jail. State Police said Miss Bakay was arrested Aug. 13 after troopers found a just-born girl stuffed in the toilet bowl of an Alder Creek gas station, north of Utica.

The station-owner called police, he said, when a woman who appeared to be pregnant spent 45 minutes in the rest room, then drove off.

Plane Avoids Boat

MOUNT STORM, W.Va. (AP) — A collision between a boat and a plane was avoided, but Blaine Lawson of Cleveland, Ohio, still isn't too happy.

Lawson was about to take off in his seaplane from the Stony River near here Sunday when he turned sharply to avoid hitting a boat.

The result was a damaged wing and a lost pontoon. Lawson said he would have to truck the plane out to have it repaired. No injuries were reported.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Aug. 17, 1807 Fulton started his trip up the Hudson in his Clermont, and no doubt he went right passed what was once Columbus Point, and now known as Kingston Point Park. Before that, in 1609 Henry Hudson went up past this point to Cohoes. It was said, as time went on all ships and river craft landed at Kingston Point because of the good depth of water, and all of the traffic continued to be there until after the completion of the Delaware and Hudson canal in the early part of the last century, according to a 1903 booklet on Kingston Point Park.

After the D & H Canal the Rondout Creek was improved, thus allowing vessels of deep draft to come up to the terminus of the canal at Eddyville, above Rondout. From that time until the late 1890's, Kingston Point was a deserted spot.

For some years now, this being 1966, Kingston Point has again been a deserted spot. It said that when the terminus of the Ulster and Delaware Railroad and the Hudson River Boats began to land there, they re-discovered this Hudson River location. Then came the trolley roads which extended to Kingston Point and it was developed through the genius of Downing Vaux, landscape artist, into a picturesque summer park, and thousands of people from up and down the Hudson towns and cities began to come here. Visitors from foreign countries were brought here on the Daylines. Now, in 1966, again Kingston Point is being worked seriously to make it a beautiful park.

Back in the early days the development of the park had been carried out on a very elaborate scale without detracting, however, from the natural wildness of it. There was a pine forest, picnic grounds in its shaded area.

The substantial iron bridge which connected the mainland with the boat landing was destroyed for some reason or other. I went down there one day, and see they are working on a crossing now. I do hope they will arch it so that during high tide, row-boats and canoes and other small craft will be able to go in and out. The tide was coming in when I was there, and when going out is strong enough to carry craft out into the Hudson. The water goes around the bandstand island, so I hope they do not fill it in. I did not see the bandstand, perhaps the growth covers it.

There was a bridge to one side which was used only by the musicians. There was another smaller bridge down to a little raft, where one could rent boats, near the band stand. Perhaps, a Bailey Bridge could be laid across from the mainland to the Hudson river dock temporarily, as was used at the viaduct bridge when it fell down.

Some of the summer houses are there, but were so worked on by vandals that they need benches and roofs. Perhaps wide slab-wood could be had from a lumber mill and placed over the roofs to give it that rustic effect, until they can get better material. There is one thing that the park had and that was many benches, lots of them all over, so one could enjoy sitting or walking, or having a picnic, as there were many tables.

Perhaps they could try and have a carnival at the Point, as they did at the Kingston Shopping Plaza. No doubt once the Point will be in a usable condition, and boats will be able to bring excursions, it will once again become a famous park. In the early days, it had an oriental motif in all its structures, and they had even the Oriental Hotel or the hill. Of course, a genius, is needed to design and arrange the paths, and plaza, and pagodas, summer houses, and then police it.

Truck Overtakes, Two Tampa Men Killed in Auto

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A tank truck loaded with 48,000 pounds of phosphoric acid turned over Sunday, crushing a passing automobile and killing two of the three men inside.

Police said the tank truck attempted to make a turn at 40 to 50 miles per hour. The tank section almost flattened the automobile, they said.

Sam Samone Lauro, 48, and Emil Edward Bender, 51, both of Tampa, were killed.

A passenger in the car, Paul E. Busse, 35, of Jacksonville, was hospitalized in serious condition.

Driver of the truck, Gerald Parker Smith, 26, of Tampa, was not injured. He was charged with reckless driving. Some of the acid spilled on to the street but was quickly cleaned up.

Assess Ship Damage

MORRISTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Assessors were at work today trying to gauge damage to a Canadian ore-carrier that was pulled free Sunday after two days aground in the St. Lawrence River.

The John E. F. Misener, a 636-foot-long, 19,000-ton vessel, went aground Friday at Shelton Island, near Brockville, Ont.

The ship, carrying iron ore into the Great Lakes, was unloaded Saturday and pulled free by tugs early Sunday. She was towed to McNair Island, opposite this village southwest of Ogdensburg, for damage estimates.

To Close Un-American Activities Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Joe Pool, D-Tex., says he hopes to wind up today hearings by the House Committee on Un-American Activities on legislation that would authorize heavy penalties for interfering with troop and supply movements.

Under committee rules, names of today's witnesses were not announced in advance, but it was learned most represent various groups supporting such legislation.

Under a bill introduced by Pool, acting committee chairman, maximum penalties for interfering with troop and supply movements would be a $20,000 fine and 20 years in prison.

In often stormy sessions last week, more than 50 persons were hauled from the hearing room, most for shouting antiwar slogans or refusing to heed Pool's orders to sit down.

Pool said he hoped the committee could complete action on a bill this week. Overwhelming House passage of such legislation appears likely.

Northwest, the fifth line involved in the 43-day strike which ended last Friday, said more than 50 per cent of its service has been restored but did not expect full service until midweek when Seattle-Honolulu flights will resume.

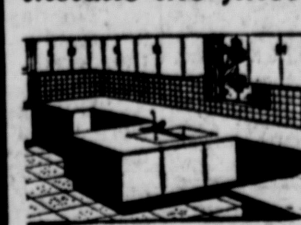

Domestic flights generally were not crowded over the weekend, with many persons apparently staying with their original travel plans by car, bus or train.

National Airlines reported, however, "better than 90 per cent" business, adding that its New York to Florida jets were flying with "good loads," generally about 90 passengers.

A United spokesman said passenger volume out of Kennedy and Newark airports was running about 70 per cent of normal, with an above-normal number of "no shows" — persons who make reservations but fail to show up.

All the lines reported heavy advance bookings.

HELP UNCLE SAM FIGHT INFLATION

During these prosperous days, save part of your income to pay cash for long-term needs and for the luxuries of life. Thus you make money available to finance a war and for the needed expansion of industries that manufacture the items you want to buy with your cash savings. You also aid in slowing down inflationary spirals that otherwise merely increase the cost of your daily living.

And by saving, you spend fewer of your earned dollars for future purchases. Today's high interest rates on savings add the difference.

Your dollars "make" cents—and that makes sense, too!

ANOTHER LUNAR TRIUMPH

With each new success at closeup inspection of the moon, the U.S. space program comes nearer to that historic moment when an astronaut will emerge from the grotesque landing vehicle and step out onto the lunar surface. A long step toward realization of this goal was taken when Lunar Orbiter I became a satellite of earth's great natural satellite.

Orbiter I is a far more sophisticated workhorse than the Luna 10 which the Soviet Union sent into orbit around the moon last April. The Russian capsule sent back valuable data on moon radiation before it went dead. But the American satellite is expected to provide a wealth of photographic views of the lunar surface, including potential landing sites for the first manned vehicle. This, added to the photographic closeups provided by the Rangers and Surveyor I, gives the United States a commanding lead in the task of assessing the lunar environment prior to a manned expedition.

Perhaps by coincidence, detailed plans for the first manned landing were disclosed at about the time Lunar Orbiter I was sent on its way. Much is now publicly known about the exact progression of events that will take place, from the time the lunar module touches down until the two astronauts it carries have returned to the parent Apollo vehicle.

All of this, not to mention the moon journey itself, will be an exceedingly complex and delicate undertaking. Information sent back by Lunar Orbiter I and other moon probe vehicles will be essential to assure its success.

THE KLAN'S BIG LIE

One of the more curious aspects of that curiously repellent organization known as the Ku Klux Klan is its claim to be defending Christianity against the foe. The Klan's brutal terrorism makes this claim a prime example of how the "big lie" technique operates.

At a recent assemblage of hate-mongers in Raleigh, N. C., Imperial Wizard Robert Shelton of the United Klans of America reared back in all his wizardly power and delivered himself to this thumping statement: "The issue in America today is not white against Negro. It is simply American Communists."

This analysis of the Negro's struggle for equal rights is such a piece of demonstrable nonsense that it scarcely justifies comment. But what makes it worse is the Klan's implication often stated explicitly enough at other times, that this body of hooded zealots is a champion of Christ's teachings.

Considering the Klan's record of hatred, violence, terrorism, intimidation and other affront to decent society, it is hard to imagine anything further from the truth than that the Klan speaks for Christians. When its leaders make that claim, it should be recognized as the big lie in full bloom.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The leading French newspaper Le Monde has just printed an eyewitness account of Viet Cong terrorism that should arouse the wrath of civilized mankind.

President de Gaulle's favorite paper is only rarely impartial in its reports and comments about the United States. Yet even Le Monde—obviously in a moment of truth—emphasized that "it is unjust to blame the Americans" for the ruthlessness of the war in Viet Nam.

Le Monde's account of Viet Cong atrocities is of historic significance for still another reason. It was reprinted in full—and without a denial—by Literarni Novini, Communist Czechoslovakia's top literary journal.

Here is a word-for-word translation of what Le Monde and Literarni Novini said about the Viet Cong's strategy of murder and genocide:

"No day passes in South Viet Nam without a tragedy. Village heads and local officials are murdered, kidnapped and tortured by the Viet Cong.

"During the past three months, 130 of them were killed and 100 kidnapped. Ordinary civilians, usually simple villagers, are executed.

"A new school was burned by Viet Cong terrorists one day after it was inaugurated. Breeding animals sent to Viet Nam by American foreign aid are killed. South Vietnamese employees of the U. S. Information Service are tortured without mercy. Twelve of them were murdered at the beginning of this year.

"All of the people—and not merely those accused of collaborating with the United States—are increasingly subjected to terror.

"Since conscription of soldiers is more and more difficult, the Viet Cong more and more often use violence and mobilize boys, starting at the age of 14.

"The taxes the Viet Cong fix for the poorest villages are increasingly oppressive. More and more frequently they are collected with machine gun in hand. Many executions are carried out as warnings.

"Thus the war by exhaustion manifests itself very heavily, ruthlessly and with disturbing lack of effect."

This is the unvarnished picture of Viet Cong savagery painted by the anti-American Le Monde and the Communist Literarni Novini—not by President Johnson's apologists or the Pentagon's propagandists.

Yet, while some American intellectuals and professors are quick to condemn American "crimes" in Viet Nam, they are conspicuously silent about the Viet Cong's unprecedented atrocities against thousands of innocents.

They even back the impudent "war crimes tribunal" that is being cooked up by Britain's 90-year-old Lord Bertrand Russell, ostensibly to decide whether U.S. conduct in Viet Nam constitutes a crime against humanity.

President Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara are listed to be tried as "war criminals" by this "tribunal."

And who will be the judges? They will include, believe it or not, such notorious pro-Communists and America-haters as the French writer Jean-Paul Sartre, the Yugoslav politician and President Tito's old friend Vladimir Dedjic and the Trotskyist "historian" Isaac Deutscher.

Since these men have long ago—even before they received a shred of evidence—condemned the United States, they will be acting as prosecutors as well as judges.

THE WELL CHILD

Immediacy Not Important

In Umbilical Repair

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A mother writes that her first child was operated on for an umbilical hernia when she was 8 months old. Her second child also had this out-pouching of the navel and a different doctor advised waiting until the child was 8 years old before considering an operation. She would like to know what treatment is best and whether a healed umbilical hernia would rupture again in adult life during labor.

The present trend among doctors is to wait at least 2 years before surgically closing an umbilical hernia because in most cases they close spontaneously after about a year. Meanwhile the hernia causes the child no discomfort and does not interfere with the working of the abdominal organs.

The old practice of drawing the sides of the hernia together with adhesive tape was adopted chiefly to keep the doctor from being accused of sitting on his hands but we now know that watchful waiting is the best policy. This is because the adhesive tape is likely to irritate the infant's delicate skin and infection may develop under the tape. Furthermore the practice of taping, a one cent piece over the rupture not only does no good but may actually interfere with the spontaneous closure of the hernia.

The question of when surgical repair should be done, if the hernia does not close, should be left to the discretion of the surgeon. Most surgeons prefer to do this before the child enters first grade but waiting two or three more years would not really matter. The operation is easily performed if the opening is small, but if it is very large, a preliminary operation followed by a second operation may be necessary.

Once healed, there is no danger of rupture recurring in later life.

Q—About 5 months ago my 4-year-old son swallowed about 25 tablets of baby aspirin. They made him a little groggy for a short time. Could they have damaged his kidneys?

A—The number of baby aspirin tablets (1¼ grain) necessary to cause symptoms of poisoning in a 4-year-old child varies widely depending on the child's weight and personal sensitivity to the drug. In some, nine such tablets would cause symptoms and in others it might take 32. Once the acute stage of the poisoning has passed, no permanent damage to the kidneys or other organs would be expected.

credit card which the vending machine registers by means of an electronic device.

The company which plans to introduce this further step toward total on-the-cuff living concedes that use of the wonder machines may be limited at first to institutions and industrial plants, for the very practical reason that it will cost a lot—forgive the expression—cash to install them.

An elaborate electronic memory unit and a computer will be needed to enable the vending machine to sell stuff on tick.

This paraphernalia will cost about $2,000 in addition to the price of the vending machines, which itself isn't peanuts.

With this break-through in the currency curtain, it will undoubtedly be only a matter of time until such other irritating cash items as public phone calls, toll fares, parking meters and similar hangovers from medieval living will be eliminated and we can enjoy a glorious age in which we can charge everything now and pay later.

The ultimate Utopia will come, of course, when some supergenius figures out a way to charge now and NEVER pay later.

The society will really be great!

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

What follows is a letter from a teen-ager:

"I have been reading your articles about juvenile delinquency.

"Because I am an 18-year-old teen-ager I feel your articles pertain to me. No, I am not a juvenile delinquent but I could be very easily.

"I think your efforts to rid the courts of juvenile delinquents, keeping them off the street and from just 'hanging around' will be progressive eventually, but I don't think you understand why some boys and girls become delinquents. I don't know all the reasons either but do have some ideas.

"You stated (some) teen-agers don't have the motivation to display their talents. What about those who do care and maybe lack the high IQ or intelligence (me) that's desired or required for a certain vocational career?

"Some students have wanted to become nurses ever since they bandaged their dolls' arms; others have had plans to become teachers since they were little tots playing school themselves and so many others wanted to enter these and other professions.

"(But) because of the great emphasis placed on college boards and pre-entrance examinations, these students with motivation, ability and especially the desire to learn are discouraged because they get rejected from particular schools.

"Their lifelong desires . . . to engage in nursing, teaching, etc., are now lost and have to be forgotten.

"Now they are undecided and don't know what to do. So they will find a job that pays something, but the interest in this particular job (is) lacking. They just don't care, because it is not what they planned to become.

"Others who are very discouraged, give up because their lifelong ambitions are ruined. (They 'burn around,' obtaining that 'laissez faire' attitude on life.

"I don't understand why such great emphasis should be placed on college boards and college entrance exams.

"How can these tests, taken in one day, possibly determine your ability, show your personality, emphasize your inner desires, or show how hard you have tried to compete with the difficult subjects required to enter this particular profession?

"In my opinion, someone who has the desire to learn, the motivation and the willingness to try to become what he has set his heart on doing for years should at least stand a chance.

"You wonder why kids hang around street corners and the like, well if they can't get accepted into college, where are they going to practice their talents, skills and lifelong ambitions that they so long desired to perform?

"I am presently doing work in chemistry and am trying my hardest to fulfill my desire to become a registered nurse. I too, if not accepted by a nursing school, could become a delinquent, because of discouragement!

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The bell rang. Kathy, in yellow braids and protected by the dignity of being 11-years-old, answered. A moment later, she was in the library where I work. "Man to see you," she said. "His name"—she bowed her head—"is Jesus Christ." I don't like unexpected visitors. However, with that name, I said: "Send him in."

He was short, 40, wears a soft brown beard, dark hair swept clean along the sides and down onto his neck, and has the most compassionate blue eyes I have ever seen. His blue shirt was open at the neck. We shook hands and I motioned him to a chair. "I'm Jesus Christ," he said. I said: "You've been away a long time."

Kathy stood behind him, shrugging and making I-couldn't-help-it expressions. I waved her out. The man put in a lot of time talking. His speech was sensible, almost modest. The simplest thing, of course, is to say "My column attracts nuts" and get rid of him. However, the Savior was called a nut, a magician, an anarchist. If he came back again, history would repeat itself.

This Jesus was born Carl Paul Goetting in Dakota, Minnesota. His father was a farmer. The boy received an elementary education and then a practical one behind a plow. His Pentecostal Church, but they quit because father said: "I get no food there."

Still, they prayed to Christ terminally. Once the boy lost a mouth organ. "You know where it is," Carl told God. "I promise I'll be good if you find it." He prayed an hour. When he left his bedroom and went into the kitchen, his mother said: "Look. Your mouth organ. It was inside Dad's can of tobacco."

Jesus tapped a cigarette on the back of his left hand, and said that he regarded the matter as a small miracle. He studied the Bible diligently and became confused. "God," he murmured, "if there are three of you, tell me which one is to pray to." He had faith that God would appear before him and explain it. Nothing happened.

The winters were intensely cold and the summers breathed coolness across the wheat and the corn, and Carl kept praying. Once he heard a voice from inside his body say: "The only way I speak to men is through my word." At once, Carl held a Bible over his head and said frankly: "All right. Help me to pick a page and hold my finger on it and I will do whatever it says."

The pages flipped and stopped. The finger touched print. The verse read: "What, know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you?" Carl Goetting broke down and wept. The metamorphosis toward becoming Jesus Christ began. The spirit understood, but the flesh was deaf.

He married a lovely lady named Lucille, and now he has 11 children and an $11,000 house. He moved to La Crescent, Minnesota, and began to wonder if, indeed, there was a God. He had a good job in a factory, and materialism was seductive.

One night, at age 37, he got on his knees again. "I don't understand a lot of things, God," he said. "If Jesus is alive, please send him down here. I have a thousand questions I want to ask him." In the darkness, Carl saw a tiny light. It brightened, but nothing appeared inside it. Within him, a voice said: "You are Jesus Christ."

Carl burst into laughter. He was sure that this was the work of the devil. He composed himself and began to pray again. He prayed all night. Again the inner voice said: "You are Jesus Christ." Carl said: "Okay God. I'll prove to you that I'm not." He began to recite all his sins, his failures, his weaknesses. "Besides," he said, "people will say I'm crazy."

The inner voice said: "You will learn through suffering." Since then, he has proclaimed himself Jesus Christ. It scares him because he doesn't feel like the Saviour. "Still," he said, tapping the cigarette out, "I'm going to show the people of the

Need Is Seen for New Moves To Hold Inflationary Curve

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — When announcement was made a few days ago that interest rates had been raised to six per cent on business borrowing, the average person wondered if this was good news or bad news and whether sooner or later it is going to affect his own pocket-book.

There are rarely any easy answers where the flow of money is concerned. But it can be unequivocally stated that there's something wrong with the money situation and something worrisome about the whole financial picture throughout the world.

With the "prime" rate for business loans now at six per cent in America, foreigners find it more profitable to invest funds in this country. This starts a flow of dollars our way and helps the deficit in "balance of payments," about which the government here has been so concerned. But the relief may be only temporary, as eventually European countries can raise their rates, too, and bring back much of the money previously sent here.

What effect, then, will the rise in interest rates for the borrowers have on the funds now deposited in our banks? The rate of income for depositors will tend to go up, as the banks naturally want to keep their supply of money high enough for further use in loans to customers. Meanwhile, bonds are yielding more and more return, so the investor will be putting money into bonds. That's why deserts of the market in stocks have already caused a drop in security values. This tends to hold down speculation for the time being, but it doesn't solve the problem of the banks, which want to be able to provide businesses with more money. The demand for credit at present is unusually strong. The net result of a money scarcity, on the other hand, is to discourage construction plans and investments in business expansion.

Any such readjustment of a major character has its impact on the condition of business generally. It will take some time to appraise the real effect of the curtailment of bank lending to business.

The theory has been widespread that the current high demand for money was created by the stimulus given to business by government spending and other factors. The ease, for instance, with which mortgage money at low rates has been made available caused a building boom, just as the higher mortgage rates now have brought about a building slump.

Eventually, as business volume is curtailed, there is a rise in unemployment, and this in turn affects the total amount of money spent on consumer goods by the individual.

It has never been determined whether in 1929, if there had been an early enough raising of the price of credit, the crash could have been averted. Some economists think that what is happening today may seem painful, but that more serious consequences are being prevented by making loan rates high.

The other side of the coin is that stringent measures of credit control sometime create a psychology of pessimism and foreboding. Other restrictive moves will have to be made by the government itself to hold down the inflationary curve that has begun to go higher. There policies, however, will not be undertaken until after election, as the administration would hardly think it politic to take such a drastic step now.

The Federal Reserve Board is on record as having offered a remedy. Its restrictive credit policy has helped to push up the interest rates to the highest figure since the 1920's, and, if inflation keeps up, the board will be able to point to the political departments of the government as bearing the responsibility for the national economy's distress.

The politicians don't like to appear to be halting a boom. They seem to prefer to wait until a collapse comes before taking decisive action. The optimists feel that what the Federal Reserve Board is doing serves as a warning that skyrocketing prices could cause the dollar to lose much of its purchasing power if somebody high in the government doesn't soon begin to order a curtailment in excessive government spending.

Today's Business Mirror

Ap Business

News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Business is getting involved ever more deeply in technology. And one result is that engineers are being called upon for more top management jobs.

Engineering schools are responding by introducing courses that provide graduates with more than purely engineering backgrounds.

Look for Executives

Corporations which a few years back looked mainly to sales experts or production line supervisors as sources of management recruiting are now studying engineering divisions for personnel with executive abilities.

In 1960 only about 7 per cent of top management of American business had a technological background. By 1975 this had advanced to 13 per cent, jumped to 20 per cent by 1980 and to 36 per cent by 1985.

Cites Prime Reasons

Increasing technological complexity of products and services is a prime reason for more corporations filling top management jobs with engineers, according to Paul Robbins, executive director of the National Society of Professional Engineers, which has 65,000 members in all ranks from pure research to executive posts.

List of Key Men

Among the top men with engineering degrees who head leading corporations are: Michael L. Haider, chairman and chief executive of Jersey Standard Oil, and its president, J.K. Jamieson; A.P. Fontaine, chairman and chief executive of Bendix; Russell C. Taylor, president of ACF Industries; John T. Whitely, president and chief executive of Amerace; Robert S. Ingersoll, chairman and chief executive of Borg-Warner; Charles J. Haines, chairman and chief executive of Chemtron; Frederic O. Hess, president and chief executive of Selas; and the new chairman of Humble Oil & Refining, M.A. Wright and its president, Charles F. Jones.

Among the many other companies with executives high up the ladder who have engineering degrees are: U. S. Steel, General Electric, RCA, General Dynamics, Phillips Petroleum, Carnation, Eastman Kodak.

Booklet Available

Contributions of the National Bureau of Standards of the U.S. Department of Commerce to the scientific and technical progress of the country are outlined in a new history of the bureau, just published by the Department of Commerce, and now available to the public. The 703-page book, called "Measures for Progress," is particularly appropriate at this time, according to Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor, since the Bureau of Standards has moved to a new $107 million headquarters in Gaithersburg, Md. "Measures for Progress" may be ordered from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., 20402.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — America's first bright, clear close-ups of the moon's mysterious far side show pretty much what was expected — nothing new.

Two good, sharply focused pictures transmitted to Earth Sunday by the Lunar Orbiter spacecraft just show more lumps and craters — a carbon copy, almost, of the familiar near side.

Orbiter, an 850-pound American shuttlebus, looked in orbit around the moon, took the two shots late Friday and early Saturday, processed them in a small on-board laboratory, then radioed them back for scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here.

The pictures show much more detail than photos sent back in 1959 by the Soviet Luna 3, scientists said, although spokesmen for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration didn't interpret the new shots immediately.

First received was the high-resolution photo — showing an area about 75 by 100 miles — taken by the spacecraft's ailing close-up camera. It was centered on a point about 150 degrees west longitude and 5 degrees south latitude.

The other photo, taken in the same general area, covered about 360 by 220 miles. It was taken by the medium-resolution lens, which has worked perfectly throughout the mission.

The craft was able to take a good picture with the close-up lens, scientists said, because they didn't activate the error motion compensation system.

The system, which wasn't needed for the picture because of the spacecraft's 1,000-mile altitude at the time, is designed to insure clear pictures by moving the film while the shutter is open to account for the spacecraft's speed. It apparently doesn't do it right, they said.

Shuttle May Be Faulty Spacecraft manager Israel Tabbok told a news conference Sunday his study of 40 blurred high-resolution photos indicated the shutter behind the lens may be at fault — not clicking at the right time.

At the same news conference, the scientists reported that a delicate maneuver early Sunday morning altered the craft's egg-shaped orbit, dropping Orbiter from its 130-mile level to 36 miles above the lunar surface at its low point of orbit. They said it is expected to drop to its planned height, 28 miles, by Thursday.

Project manager Clifford H. Nelson said the failure of the high-resolution camera system — designed to spot surface features as small as a card table — means the mission is only about 50 per cent successful in achieving its goal of taking close-ups of potential astronaut landing sites.

Other experiments — counting micrometeorites and measuring radiation — brought the mission's success level up to about 75 per cent, however, he said.

New Delhi OKs Blueprint for Farming Gains

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India has unveiled a sweeping $31.6-billion plan designed to boost agricultural production and industry over the next five years.

To make the plan work, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government hopes Western nations, particularly the United States, will come through with about $8.5 billion in foreign aid. The Soviet Union and other Communist countries are being counted on for another $1 billion.

India, which has been receiving a million tons of wheat a month from the United States, is trying to improve its farming methods so it can feed its 495 million people.

This is the fourth time since its independence in 1947 that India has come up with a five-year plan designed to haul its people out of the ox-cart era into the 20th century.

The nation's highest policy-making group on planning, the National Development Council, approved the plan Sunday. It is subject to approval by Parliament but passage is virtually assured as Mrs. Gandhi's Congress party has an overwhelming majority there.

The size of the plan is considered a political victory for Mrs. Gandhi, who resisted warnings from members of her government and party that India, with its current economic difficulties, is in no position to embark on such an ambitious plan.

India devalued its currency just two months ago and opponents of the plan fear it might touch off a disastrous inflation that could create widespread political turmoil in an already restless nation.

Mrs. Gandhi countered that India must continue large-scale agricultural investment if famine is to be averted.

Stray Bullet Hits Young Girl

A carelessly fired .22 calibre rifle barely missed causing serious injury to Susan Newkirk, 2½-year-old daughter of Deputy Sheriff and Mrs. Benjamin Newkirk of Mt. Marion, according to County Investigator Thomas Mayone.

Mayone said the child was playing in the back yard at her home shortly before 7:30 p. m. Sunday, when her father saw her fall to the ground. Newkirk hurried to her aid and discovered blood on her right shoulder.

Newkirk picked up the child and rushed her to the office of Dr. B. W. Gifford in Saugerties. An examination disclosed a .22 calibre bullet in the girl's shoulder. The slug was removed.

Sheriff's men investigated and searched the area in the vicinity of the Newkirk home. Mayone said it is believed that someone was target practicing nearby and the stray bullet hit the little girl, causing a flesh wound and missing the neck by inches.

Five Area Men Finish Schools At Camp Smith

Three local New York State National Guardsmen have completed Officer Candidate School at Camp Smith, Peekskill. Two others completed a course in NCO School at Camp Smith during the past two weeks training period.

Completing the officer candidate school were Sgt./T5 Robert J. Dittus of 42 Clifton Avenue; Sgt./T5 Lawrence F. Brown of Hurley and Sgt./T5 Michael J. Arace of 21 Henry Street.

Pfc. Harold F. Cavanaugh Jr. of RD 2, Kingston and Sp. 4 William A. Ritchie of 30 East Road, High Falls, completed the non-commissioned officer course.

The Empire State Military Academy from which these men graduated is highly regarded by the Department of the Army and has served as a model for other states to inform training programs.

Senior West Point cadets serve as platoon leaders who are responsible for the discipline and control of the students throughout the 15-day session. They employ the famous "beat barracks" techniques of the military academy.

The noncommissioned officers program is an intensified course on basic military subjects, emphasizing tactics, leadership, and instruction methods. Stress is placed on student participation.

City Mishap

Sunday. The fatal mishap was reported at 3:50 p. m. Officer Richard Spaulding investigated.

They were pilot Edward C. Schiavi, 43, and his passenger, Carleton C. Stout, 37. The Beechcraft Bonanza was on a flight from Buffalo to Wellsville when it apparently developed engine trouble and crashed during an attempt to land near a farm.

The shotgun accident took the life of Mrs. Joan E. Siebold of Buffalo. Police said her husband, Robert, 33, told them he was removing the gun from a rack in a bedroom and was not aware the weapon was loaded.

The weapon fired as it slipped from Siebold's grasp, police said with the charge striking Mrs. Siebold in the face.

Double Spraying Efforts in Dallas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Health authorities, stepping up their campaign against a Dallas encephalitis epidemic, doubled their spraying efforts today, with a total of six planes available instead of a previous three.

Deaths from the disease now total 5.

Four planes, seeking to eradicate the culex mosquito, bearer of the killer disease, began spraying at dawn.

They can operate for only a little more than two hours because the spray does not fall if temperatures go above 80 degrees.

The additional C123 planes arrived Sunday, the crews still were in combat gear, for they had been first marked for defoliation work in Viet Nam.

Two of the planes were grounded today while crewmen installed nozzles.

As high winds Sunday halted spraying for the second day in a row, three more cases of the disease were reported and another death was blamed on encephalitis.

"We are counting five deaths now," Dr. Hal J. Dewlett, city health director, said. He placed at 81 the number of persons who have contracted the illness, commonly known as sleeping sickness.

The spraying campaign was initiated Friday after health officials said the disease had reached the epidemic stage.

Flights the next two days by Air Force C123s had to be cancelled because of weather.

The planes, which spread a mosquito-killing insecticide, malathion, can spray only when the temperature is below 85 and the winds are light.

King Thinks Rain Checked Possible Chicago Violence

CHICAGO (AP) — Jeers, rocks and firecrackers greeted open-housing marches in two Chicago-area neighborhoods but Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said heavy rain checked possible violence.

A third march Sunday was all but ignored.

Two of the three marches ventured into a suburb for the first time. A court injunction obtained by the city Friday banned any group from sponsoring more than one march at a time within the city limits.

Some Items Tossed King walked through a driving rain with 500 members of the civil rights force into the neighborhood called East Side.

Chicago's extreme Southeast Side, a valley of green apples, teen cans, rocks, bottles and firecrackers were tossed at the soaked marchers.

King said: "The hostility was not as glaring as it might have been. The people (white spectators) were kept away by rain. The demonstrations will continue."

At Evergreen Park, a southwestern suburb, the Rev. James Bevel led a protest by 250 civil rights advocates. A third group of 250, a valley through drenched streets in Chicago Heights, a community south of Chicago, no one came out into the rain to join them and few watched.

Police said 20 persons were arrested at the East Side and Evergreen Park demonstrations.

A force of 186 Cook County, state and suburban police kept angry segments of the hecklers from threatening the marchers' safety in Evergreen Park.

More than 500 white residents stood in puddles on lawns, sidewalks and curbs to heckle the demonstrators. Firecrackers exploded at the feet of policemen and bottles crashed near the marchers.

As the auto caravan of demonstrators arrived for the march in Evergreen Park, white youths hurled stones and smashed one windshield, injuring both occupants of the car.

In the East Side march, police skirmished continually with youths who tossed missiles into the path of the marchers. The youths then ran to alleys where police pursuit was often futile.

Two white men refused to obey a police order to clear the sidewalk. This resulted in a brief battle between police and spectators. Nine persons were arrested, including the two belligerents who were clubbed to their knees by police.

Illinois Fair Was Plagued by Tragedy

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois State Fair, plagued by tragedy during its final weekend, ended Sunday.

Saturday, three persons died and 30 were injured when a one-ton platform fell from the grandstand roof.

An accident Sunday during a five-mile amateur motorcycle race killed Bill Corbin, 26, of Marion, a driver, and injured four others. One of them, Rick Vetter, 25, of San Francisco, was hospitalized in critical condition.

Two photographers and the fair's stage manager were killed Saturday in the collapse of the platform.

Ex-Sheriff Hurt In Fall at Home

Claude Bell, former Ulster County sheriff, was injured Sunday afternoon when he fell 10 feet off a retaining wall near the garage at his West Shokan home.

Mrs. Bell said today that her husband was adjusting a hose he was using to sprinkle the lawn when he apparently stepped too far back and he fell to the ground. He was taken to Benedictine Hospital by ambulance and admitted after treatment for a back injury.

Last year, Bell fell from a ladder while adjusting television equipment at his home, and at that time he suffered a back injury, from which he didn't fully recover. X-rays were being taken at the hospital today, according to Mrs. Bell.

Hills Bros. Lists Coffee Price Cuts

Hills Bros. Coffee Inc. announces a wholesale price reduction of 5 cents per pound on its ground coffee and a reduction on its instant coffee of 10 cents per six oz. jar and 20 cents per 10 ounce jar.

These price reductions are effective Aug. 22.

Hills Bros. Coffee Inc. is making these price reductions due to the current coffee marketing situation, it was announced today.

The company says it has no plans to resume the practice of selling "cents off" labeling at this time despite the fact that some of its major competitors have already done so.

However, the company expects to be competitive with other national coffee brands in the net prices of its product to retail grocery stores, the announcement said.

Youth Charged With Theft of Auto

A car reported stolen at 7:24 p. m. Sunday from Lincoln Street was located uptown by local police at 1:05 a. m. today and Gregory Theodore Lyke, 17, of Lucas Avenue was charged with first degree grand larceny.

Mrs. William Harder, of Box 73, Hurley reported the car taken from Lincoln Street near Clifton Avenue. It was located at Main and Fair streets by Detective Albert Hutton and Floyd Krom.

Lyke was represented by Attorney Ward W. Ingalsbe in city court today and hearing was put over to Wednesday. Bail, fixed at $1,500 cash or $2,000 property was not immediately posted.

Clintondale

CLINTONDALE — The 15th annual carnival of the Clintondale Fire Department held Friday and Saturday at the firemen's recreation area was well attended and a financial success.

The proceeds will go into the fund established to help defray the cost of a new firehouse in town. The general committee was composed of Francis Gaffney, Peter Guido, John Jacobs and Larry Capozzi.

Supervisor Joseph Martorana has received word that the United Postal Department will seek larger quarters for the Plattkill Post Office. For a great many years the post office was in part of the store, first owned by Minard and later by Sisti. In recent years it has been located in a small building on Plattkill Corners.

Martorana requested larger, more modern quarters for the Plattkill office over a year ago.

Mrs. Lillian Eling and her niece Miss Lorraine Jenkins have been visiting relatives in New Jersey. Miss Jenkins is on vacation from her position as a secretary at Oakwood School in Poughkeepsie.

Blames Headlights Of Car for Crash

While driving his car west on Route 28, Town of Shandaken, at 4 a. m. Sunday, Frederick Moxham, 18, of Chichester, lost control and the vehicle hit a utility pole, according to state police.

Trooper Richard Dempsey said Moxham told Trooper J. J. Brainard that glaring headlights of an oncoming car, caused him to lose control as the vehicle went off the right side of the pavement and rammed into the pole.

Moxham sustained lacerations of the nose and right forearm.

Three Are Arrested For Boatyard Try

Accused of attempting to take cleats off a boat at Feeney's Boat Yard on Sunday, three persons were arrested by Deputy Sheriff Jack McSpirt of the sheriff's boat patrol on Rondout Creek.

County Investigator Thomas Mayone said McSpirt booked Mark L. Harned, of 217 Harding Avenue, Vestal; Ronald I. Meyers, of Summit Gardens, Poughkeepsie; and his wife, Sally, same address. They were charged with attempting to commit the crime of petit larceny, authorities said.

Kelly was taken to Kingston Hospital suffering a fractured right ankle and foot. Trooper John McMickle said the car, driven by Joseph Ferraro Jr., 35, of Glasco, was pulling out of a private driveway and Kelly was traveling east at the time of the mishap.

Charge Callahan Hit Deputy Sheriff Walsh

An 18-year-old Dutchess-County youth is slated for hearing in justice's court in Ellenville tonight on a charge of second degree assault arising from an incident that occurred on Friday night on Center Street in that village before the arrival of President Johnson and his party.

County Investigator Thomas Mayone said Michael Edward Callahan, of Broadway, Tivoli, is slated to appear at 6:30 p. m. today before Justice of the Peace Herbert Weissoff on the assault charge lodged by Deputy Sheriff James Walsh.

According to Mayone, Village Police Sergeant George Sheeley and Deputy Walsh investigated a complaint from a resident that Callahan, who was reportedly carrying a placard in Center Street, pushed him. Mayone said that as the youth was being questioned he allegedly took a swing at Walsh and hit him on the shoulder.

Investor Forum

Harry C. France

Scores of high-grade bonds are selling at low prices, reflecting "tight" money conditions. As a result, conservative investors can buy future dollars at interesting discounts.

Right now, interest rates are the highest in over 40 years. The United States Government, whose credit rating centers in its taxing authority over the richest and most powerful nation in the world, has recently refunded $14,000,000,000 of maturing bonds and in doing so, paid 5 1/2 per cent for its money.

It seems logical that soon the Federal Reserve Banks' discount rate will be increased. As this is written, it is 4 1/2 per cent. The Bank of England recently increased its rate to seven per cent. The American dollar and the pound sterling are the leading world currencies.

Expensive money drives down the price of bonds that were issued when money was cheaper. The money market is probably the most competitive market in the world. In these days of instant communication, the flow of money can be exceedingly rapid. And despite the serious condition of the finances of the British government, billions of dollars could flow there to earn higher wages.

Expensive money has forced the prices of U. S. Treasury bonds down as low as 80 cents on the dollar. Owners of idle dollars, who believe the buying of sound common stocks carries large risk, might well take on some of them. The Treasury four per cent obligations, long-term, today are at 89.

Can they go lower? Yes. If the discount rate should go from 4 1/2 per cent to five per cent, these bonds could sell off a few points.

Corporations with the highest credit rating are paying dearly for their borrowings. Some of the long-term obligations of American Telephone and Telegraph are selling for 69 cents on the dollar, affording investors a security selling nearly on the bottom and paying good income.

The long-term Bethlehem Steel 4 1/2 per cent bonds can be bought for 90 cents on the dollar ($900 buys a $1,000 obligation).

The four per cent obligations of General Motors Acceptance Corporation, due in 13 years, are selling for 82. The five per cent bonds of the big New York Central Railroad are bringing 80 cents on the dollar. And the general mortgage obligations of the Pennsylvania Railroad (very well secured) paying 4 1/2 per cent can be bought at 82 cents on the dollar.

A friend of mine, with large positions in Eastman Kodak and in Polaroid, has just sold Eastman at $135 a share and Polaroid at $158 and with the money bought $50,000 of U. S. Treasury four per cent bonds for $45,500. If the bonds are held to maturity, they are sure to show a profit.

Competent money management is the great need of the times. Emotion and not logic is the guiding force behind far too many decisions. Inflation psychology is too rife.

Every investor in America who can determine what his fixed dollar requirements will be in the years ahead could well acquire a portfolio of bonds selling at large discounts from face value and paying high income.

Who are such people? Home owners with mortgages due in five, ten or 20 years. Here, for example, is a young executive whose Westchester home has a $20,000 mortgage due in 1975. He has just cashed in speculative profits in stocks and he has bought $20,000 U. S. Government 4 1/2 per cent bonds for $18,800. The bonds will mature 60 days before his mortgage is due.

Expensive money and high interest rates set up an ideal financial situation for all those whose future dollar needs are known.

Survives Plane Crash After Six Days in Wreckage

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (AP)

For six days, injured John T. Emmanuel, sat pinned in his seat in a wrecked plane.

Trucks sped by on Interstate 91, only a short distance away. Search planes buzzed overhead, their pilots unable to see the wreckage under the trees.

Beside Emmanuel, 39, lay the body of his friend, Richard C. Grimaldi, 32, who had been piloting the single-engine plane back to Hartford after a weekend holiday at Block Island, R.I.

A week ago this morning, the Cessna went down, bounced off the rocky face of Mt. Hixby and fell into the woods at the bottom of the cliff.

As the days passed, Emmanuel sat trapped in the crumpled cockpit.

An air-sea search for the plane was pressed by the Federal Aviation Agency and the Coast Guard. They abandoned the search Thursday, but a number of private pilots and Connecticut authorities continued the hunt.

There was no clue to the whereabouts of the four-seater plane, state police said, until authorities received a report from truck driver John Faulkner. He told them he had seen a flash of something at the foot of the mountain in the rear view mirror of his truck while he was driving south on Interstate 91 last Monday morning.

After hearing days later about the lost plane, Faulkner gave searchers information which enabled them to pinpoint the spot where the plane might have gone down.

On Sunday, a State Aeronautics Department helicopter flew low and spotted the wreck beneath the heavy foliage at the foot of the cliff.

Searchers hiked through the wooded Mt. Hixby area to the plane, where they found Emmanuel alive.

"We did not give up hope," said Emmanuel's mother, Mrs. Thomas H. Emmanuel of Hartford. "We knew we'd find him alive."

The survivor was suffering from malnutrition, exposure, and shock. He was in serious condition, but conscious and able to speak.

Emmanuel was brought out with some difficulty. The small helicopter that found him couldn't manage it. A bigger helicopter from Suffolk (N.Y.) Air Force Base finally managed the job after making three passes at the site.

The body of the pilot, a Newington resident, was to be removed today.

State Teachers Meeting

Glenn of Duzine School, New Paltz, will be among the 540 education leaders taking part in the 18th annual leaders workshop of the state teachers association Aug. 24 at the State University College at Oswego.

General sessions, small discussions groups, and "how-to" meetings will enable participants to both learn and exchange ideas on leadership and current issues in education. Topics will range from professional negotiation and teacher ethics to quality teaching and community relations. The statewide Council of Classroom Teachers headed by Francis X. Lynch of Commack sets up the yearly workshop.

Single Tracks Are for Railroads

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Lots of people have single-track minds. If they want to win at bridge they would do well to check whether their track is the right one.

South let West hold the first trick with the king of diamonds. West could see no reason to shift to another suit. After all his partner's play of the six spot might have been a come-on. South had been careful to drop the eight and hold back the deuce. So West played a second diamond and South rattled off the rest of the tricks.

He led a club to dummy's ace and ruffed a club with a high trump. Note that he held back another deuce this time. Then he led his deuce of hearts to dummy's seven and ruffed another club. A second trump lead went to dummy's ace and the ruff of a third club dropped East's king and set up dummy's queen. Now South ruffed his last diamond with dummy's last trump and discarded his queen of spades on the queen of clubs.

West commented on how lucky South had been to hold two valuable deuces. We feel that South was even luckier in that West kept his mind on that single track.

If West had really stopped to think at trick two he would have realized that East could not hold the ace of diamonds. South's follow-up Blackwood five no-trump bid guaranteed that his side held all the aces. Then West could have shifted to a trump and South would have been one entry short in setting up that queen of clubs.

In that case North would have been upset. He might point out that South could taken the first diamond and be sure of his contract as long as clubs broke 4-3 and trumps 2-1.

Patrol Car Is Hit En Route To Fatal Mishap

Weekend city traffic mishaps resulting in injury included one involving a police patrol car en route to a Lafayette Avenue accident in which a child was killed.

Reported at 3:53 p. m. Sunday, the mishap at Main and Green streets involved a patrol car driven by Officer James Scott and a motorcycle driven by Lawrence F. Bibbo, 25, of Colonial Gardens. The latter was cited on a charge of failure to yield right-of-way, and is due to appear in city court later this week.

Officer Gerald Tierney reported back and leg injuries and was to be treated by a doctor. Bibbo suffered an injured right leg and was treated at the Benedictine Hospital, and Richard Lawrence, 22, of Spring Lake, reported a leg injury.

In a mishap reported at 4:03 p. m. Saturday on Wurts Street at the Rondout Creek Bridge, Leonard Samuel, Sr., 79, of 19 Prospect Street, Newburgh, was reported injured but the extent of injury was not noted. Police said the other car was driven by Donald J. Thumin, of 226 Thompson Street, New York. Officers Frank Kennelly and Leon Fitzgerald investigated.

Norvister Jones, 34, of 81 Clinton Avenue, reported lip and face lacerations after a mishap at East Strand and Broadway at 2:15 a. m. today. Officer Anthony Turck, who investigated, said the Jones car was forced off course into a pole by an unknown driver. Jones was treated by a doctor.

Lauds Boy Scouts

Chairman Harry Resnick lauded the scouts for their excellent showing.

15 In Honor Guard

There was an honor guard for President Johnson composed of 15 Eagle Scouts representing all three districts of the Rip Van Winkle Council under the supervision of Scout Executive MacDonald. These Scouts formed a line from the President's car to the speaker's platform and saluted him as Johnson walked down the line.

The scouts participating in the Honor Guard included Bruce Hornbeck, George Gillette and Wayne Krom, of Explorer Post No. 28 in Ellenville; Howard Haines, of Troop No. 29, Ellenville; Reid Mackey, of Troop 172 in New Paltz; Robert McKenna, of Troop No. 74 in New Paltz; Richard Pontello and Martin Lovinger, of Troop No. 22 in Kerhonkson; Theodore Smith, of Troop No. 77 in New Paltz; David Krause, of Troop 9 in Kingston; James Petery, of Explorer Post No. 70 in Highland; Thomas Wescorp, of Troop No. 130 in Saugerties; Allen Gardiner, of Troop No. 130 in Saugerties; and Raymond Beach and George Hildenbrand, of Troop No. 44 in Catskill.

600 in Ellenville

Scout Executive MacDonald said there were 600 Scouts in Ellenville representing 20 Packs, Troops and Posts in Greene and Ulster County.

The Scouts assembled at Ellenville High School, then marched a half mile to the Ellenville Hospital for the ceremony. Marching with the Scouts was the Troop No. 28 Drum and Bugle Corps.

Many of the Scouts carried placards reading, "Welcome LBJ."

Scout Leaders Clyde Benson and Kenneth Hornbeck organized the Scout Honor Guard for President Johnson.

"I was pleased by the fine representation we had in Ellenville to welcome President Johnson," said Scout Executive MacDonald. "It was a credit to our Rip Van Winkle Council."

Bridge might still be saved as a historical site in New York.

Origins of Bridge

In an article on wooden bridges which appeared in a 1943 edition of the town and county highway superintendent's bulletin "Highway Topic," Richard Sanders Allen of Round Lake termed the bridge the "oldest known covered structure" in New York State.

The bridge has a span of 136 feet and a road width of 15 feet. It is 15 feet above the stream bed at the center of the channel and is the only remaining example of the Burr truss arch design.

When the bridge over Wallkill River was built, the Wallkill Valley was the chief means of overland access from the Catskills to New York City.

Industries Flourished

Industries near the bridge at the time were mainly sawmills and gristmills near the dam just below the bridge. The Dimmick Carpet Mills, which survived into the early 20th Century, was another famous early industry.

Continuing in use until the 1930's, Perrine's Bridge was replaced by a new steel bridge a short distance upstream when Route 32 was relocated.

The bridge is named for the Perrine family which settled near the future site of the bridge about 1800. The name Perrine is pronounced with a long "i" and is sometimes shortened by natives of the area so that when they speak of the bridge it sounds like "Pine's Bridge."

Burglars Could Set Up Housekeeping

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—The Warren County Sheriff's office is looking for burglars who might intend to set up housekeeping.

Deputies said burglars looted the Upstate Furniture Co., in nearby Queensbury over the weekend and made off with a safe, containing $3,000 in cash and checks, and a quantity of household and office items.

The inventory of missing items included:

Seven portable television sets, 1 tv-stereo combination, 1 calculating machine, 1 adding machine, 1 typewriter, 1 maple bed set, 4 vacuum cleaners, 3 air conditioners, 1 three-piece sectional, 1 dinette set, 2 chaise chairs, 1 chest, 80-square yards of carpet and several lamps, shades and pictures.

Hurley Directed to issue a permit for the construction of the units.

Appearing for the Town of Hurley was Robert A. MacKinnon, and appearing for Milton and Marvin Gordon and Tanglewood Lodge Inc., was Abraham Streifer.

The first ordinance was enacted September 17, 1964, by the town as provided that "no person shall establish any industrial or commercial establishments anywhere in the town of Hurley for a term of one year from the effective date of this ordinance."

That ordinance stated that it was a "stop-gap" or "interim" ordinance to maintain the status quo, "pending the preparation and enactment of a comprehensive ordinance."

Judge Cobb holds that this ordinance cannot be enforced in the action "because the building of four family housing units is not prohibited by the ordinance and the ordinance expired before the commencement of this action."

When this first ordinance was about to expire and on September 22, 1965 the Town Board passed a second ordinance. This ordinance prohibited the erection of "any residence for occupancy of more than two families" as well as industrial or commercial establishments.

That ordinance provided that it remain in effect pending preparation and enactment of a "comprehensive ordinance or at the end of two years from the effective date, whichever is sooner."

The court holds that the "stop-gap" ordinance is not a zoning ordinance, but rather a "pre-zoning ordinance" that was enacted to maintain the status quo while information was being gathered to formulate a comprehensive zoning ordinance.

The decision of Judge Cobb notes that the town board appointed a Zoning Commissioner and hired professional planners on April 26, 1965 and in November made application to the State under the Urban Planning Assistance Program to obtain funds for financial assistance to carry out a planning program.

The application stated that a period of two years would be required to complete the planning program.

At the time of the trial the State had not acted upon that application. The town maintained that having initiated action for the development of a zoning ordinance, the "stop-gap" ordinance in question could be enacted without complying with the requirements for the enactment of a zoning ordinance.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market tried to rally early today but failed. Stocks were sharply lower early this afternoon. Trading was the heaviest in the current string of six straight daily declines.

Airlines were strong at the opening when stocks moved ahead in brisk trading. Airlines were helped by settlement of the prolonged airline strike.

Wall Street's fundamental pessimism soon overtook the market and it sank quickly. Airlines erased their gains.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 6.46 to 798.16 — breaking beneath the last time the average closed below 800 was on Feb. 27, 1964. Losses of fractions to 1 or 2 points prevailed in many groups.

The higher-priced glamour several points.

IBM fell more than 9 points. Polaroid and Xerox more than 6 each.

Losses of 2 or more points were taken by Du Pont, New York Central, U.S. Smelting and Eastern Air Lines.

Down a point or more were General Electric, United Aircraft, Eastman Kodak, Raytheon, Merck, Anaconda and U.S. Rubber.

means of ending the war.

The French leader is scheduled to arrive in Cambodia Aug. 30.

Maintains Hanoi Contacts

"These discussions well might produce some tentative steps toward negotiations," he said. He added that while De Gaulle has criticized the U.S. course in Viet Nam, he believes the French president would do what he can to end the fighting.

Mansfield noted that De Gaulle is maintaining communications with Hanoi and recently has stepped up the ranking of the French commercial mission there.

"I think Hanoi would be likely to give its attention to any suggestions that De Gaulle might make," he said.

Mansfield, who has conferred several times with Sihanouk on visits to Cambodia, said that after De Gaulle's visit the prince may be more amenable to visit by U.S. roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman.

Sihanouk postponed a proposed visit by Harriman next month because of the U.S. bombing of a village which the prince claims is in Cambodian territory.

In other developments Sunday: Former White House press secretary Pierre Salinger told the CBS television program "Face the Nation" that if President John F. Kennedy were still alive, he probably would be running the Viet Nam war much as President Johnson has.

Sen. Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, advocated the bombing of Haiphong harbor to halt the flow of munitions into North Viet Nam. He said that measure had been taken 1 1/2 years ago — when the Republicans advocated such a move — "probably the conflict would have been ended."

In the interview, Mansfield said he fears the internal upheaval in Communist China — which appears to have installed Defense Minister Lin Biao as second man to Mao Tse-tung — will result in a hardening of anti-American policies.

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., a Foreign Relations Committee member, said in a separate interview, however, he doesn't believe that China is nearly as responsible for keeping the Vietnamese fighting going as the Soviet Union.

LBJ Plans Two More

mote aggression agree to reason will the world know again the blessings of peace."

Talked With Pearson

The President's address followed a meeting with Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson at which the two leaders discussed the Viet Nam war and other matters.

Johnson flew to Canada after a nonpolitical weekend stump through upper New York and New England.

The President and Pearson dedicated a visitors' pavilion now under construction on Campobello Island, New Brunswick, where President Franklin D. Roosevelt had a summer home which still stands in the middle of a 10-acre international park.

With Pearson at his side, Johnson said:

"No man loved peace more than Franklin Roosevelt. It was in the marrow of his soul and I never saw him more gripped than when reports came from the War Department of American casualties in a major battle. But he led this nation courageously in combat — not for war's sake, but because he knew that beyond the war lay the larger hopes of man."

History Full of War

"The history of mankind is the history of conflict and agony and of wars and rumors of wars. And there still is the cruel reality that some men still believe in force and try to impose their will on others by aggression."

Pearson expressed the hope that "the guns of Viet Nam and the guns everywhere may soon cease to fire; that discussion, negotiation and agreement, the processes which FDR, the captain of Campobello, so passionately believed and so skillfully practiced, that these healing processes may soon replace the fighting and killing."

The prime minister's prepared text included the phrase "to fall" after expressing his hope that guns may cease to fire. But Pearson did not include mention of the bombs, an apparent reference to the U.S. bombing of targets in North Viet Nam as he delivered his address in which he emphasized the historic friendship between the United States and Canada.

Aides to the prime minister said there has been no change in his basic position on Viet Nam: support for the purposes and objectives of U.S. policies on Viet Nam.

Pearson reassured Johnson Sunday he will keep up his watch for any sign from Hanoi of a willingness to talk peace.

Air Economic Problems

In addition to Viet Nam, spokesmen for the two leaders said the discussions covered such things as the economy of each country as it relates to the other, the upcoming meeting of British Commonwealth ministers in London and developments in Africa.

The spokesmen, Bill D. Moyers for Johnson and Richard O'Hagan for Pearson, both said the discussions were frank and friendly but not to expect anything spectacular in terms of developments to grow out of them.

After the Campobello Island ceremony, Johnson flew back to Washington, ending his three-day tour.

Plugs for Congressmen

While Johnson's trip into five states was billed as nonpolitical, and he kept saying in his speeches that it was, he touched a number of congressional districts in which first-term Democratic congressmen are up for re-election. He never forgot to tell his audiences how well they had done in their short stay on Capitol Hill.

A good many Republicans in states touched by Johnson — Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Vermont and Maine, in addition to New York — were invited to go along and Johnson had kind words for them, too.

Among other things, he said the present Congress is far and away the best in all the nation's history, and noted that it includes Republicans as well as Democrats.

Aides who accompanied Johnson on his foray into New York and New England said he was pleased by the size of the crowds and the receptions he, Mrs. Johnson and daughter

More Jaunts Planned

Indications today were that Johnson soon will be back on the stump again — perhaps next weekend — hitting states where Democratic members of Congress, particularly first-term House members, are facing stiff contests.

In his speeches, Johnson covered the legislative waterfront, talking about laws already enacted and still more that he wants passed.

He talked a great deal about the nation's prosperity and inflation. He conceded that prices have gone up and will go up more, but said the standard of living of Americans has gone up even more.

Supplies being flown into the disaster region by the Turkish government include wheat, margarine and milk powder.

U.S. Army Lt. Col. Carl Kueffer, of Ft. Wadsworth, N.Y., stationed in Erzurum as an American military adviser with the Turkish 3rd Army, said: "The hotel is the tallest and most modern building in this city. It's a six-story reinforced steel frame building."

"Suddenly everything began to shake back and forth — chandeliers, lamps, everything. 'When that happens and you're up that high in a building, you just sit there and gamble it'll hold together.'"

"We were lucky. The building did hold together."

No Word of Yank Casualties

U.S. officials in Ankara said they have received no reports of American casualties in the disaster area. They said that they had not heard from three Peace Corps members working with peasants in the countryside.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said Peace Corpsman Ashley Campbell of Medford, Mass., was stationed in southern Erzurum Province. A husband and wife team, identified as Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Rockhill, were in southern Mus Province. Rockhill is from Racine, Wis. His wife, the former Lois Mikkelson, is from Canfield, Ohio.

Coastal States Gas Selling On Low P E Basis

Q) "Will you please explain why a stock like Coastal States Gas Producing has acted so poorly in the market over the past few years? It has an excellent growth record and I have always felt that future prospects seemed very promising. How come?" R. G.

A) A few years back the stock of Coastal States Gas probably sold on a too-high price-earnings basis and growth was being discounted. At that time the issue frequently sold at 30 to 50 times earnings.

While per share net has increased over 100 per cent since 1967, the stock has more or less been confined to a ten-point trading range, with the result that the P/E ratio now runs to a far more respectable level at about ten-to-one, the lowest in nearly a decade. If earnings continue to improve, and I feel they will, the stock could move ahead, and perhaps strongly.

Q) "About 15 years ago I bought some shares of Canadian Superior Oil at $15 a share. I knew it was speculative and I also realized it was a long-term proposition, but it doesn't seem to get anywhere and as of now it's only a few points above my cost price. Would you advise keeping it any longer? Also, what about Transiron, which I bought at 12 1/2?" L. C.

A) Answering your last question first, Transiron, in my opinion, should be sold. You have a moderate profit here. While fiscal 1966 posted an improvement over 1965, Transiron still has many problems. As for Canadian Superior Oil, I'd stay with this stock. It's a far better company today than it was 15 years ago. It is admittedly still a long-term speculation but its attributes are many: good management, extensive land holdings, strong finances and the backing of Superior Oil. Reported share earnings are low, for management charges off development costs as they occur instead of capitalizing them.

They destroyed 10 railroad tank cars and two storage buildings and cut rail lines in three places, a spokesman said.

Weekend raids on the North cost one U.S. plane. An Air Force RF4C Phantom photographic reconnaissance plane was shot down 30 miles northwest of Dong Hoi. One crewman was rescued by a Navy helicopter but the other was listed as missing.

It was the 343rd U.S. plane reported lost over North Viet Nam since the air war over the North began two years ago.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I cut aluminum foil pie plates into different sizes for covering various size bowls. (I use an old pair of scissors to do the cutting.)

You will find they are pliable and press around the tops of bowls very easily, forming fine covers which can be used over and over again.

You can even cut the rolled rim off and flatten out the pan for use on sugar bowls. Even though the crinkle isn't completely pressed out, it can still be pressed over the edge of the bowl.

I first tried this when I had broken the cover of a bowl and could not find a cover to fit in any material other than the soft stretch covers.

When the covers became split around the edges, simply cut new ones.

I have been using this method for about a year and wish I had discovered it sooner.

Edna Taylor

These pie plate bowl covers work beautifully. I also cut some of the little pot pie tins to use as covers for small bowls of leftovers. They're just wonderful, Edna.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

This hint won't help with the house work, but it may save a temper next time one of your readers tries to put on her girdle. I've found that by putting on my stockings first, the girdle slides on much easier.

When I get the top of the girdle about hip level, I fasten the stockings without a lot of pulling or twisting, then just pull the girdle the rest of the way up smoothly and evenly.

Mrs. D. M.

Letter of Thought

Dear Heloise:

It's time we quit trying to keep up with the neighbors and start trying to keep track of our children.

Terry

Dear Heloise:

I took a plastic sandwich bag, cut one of the bottom corners off and slipped the bag over my wall type pencil sharpener, fastening the top with some masking tape.

Now when I sharpen a pencil, I just slip the pencil through the hole in the plastic bag and those shavings do not fall out on things under the sharpener. The plastic bag catches them all.

I surely saves a lot of cleaning under the pencil sharpener. This would be especially good for families who have a number of children going to school.

I can't really claim this idea as my own, but give credit to my teen-age daughter.

Mrs. Everett Sellers

We tried it and it works wonderfully. Needless to say, we use a lot of pencils in our family too. It surely keeps the floor from getting so messy.

When you need to empty the sharpener, just discard the bag and replace it with a fresh one.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I keep an empty flip-top type beverage can near my gas stove. There's always a chance the match is still hot after I light the burners, so I pop it into the can.

No danger now of the hot match setting the wastebasket on fire.

After a day or so, I toss it in the garbage and get another.

Virginia Gruver

Dear Heloise:

I am only nine years old, but I like to make things.

Save your children's old socks. You can make perfect puppets with them. Just sew on eyes, nose and mouth, slip it on your hand and presto, a puppet.

Extra decorations such as toy hats will dress up the puppets. You can easily make little hats out of paper cups.

Health for All

What's What on the Health Front

New developments on the public health front are often so fast, furious and far-flung that it's difficult to keep up with the pace. Here are some recent highlights for the busy reader:

MEDICAL SERVICE — At the end of 1965 there were 5,266 more physicians in the United States than the year before, according to AMA News, published by the American Medical Association. Total count is now 292,088 — still not enough to fill the need, health experts agree.

SMOKE CLOUD — Senator Frank Moss of Utah criticized the U.S. Department of Agriculture for distributing abroad a film, "The World of Pleasure," which promotes cigarette smoking. "Highly improper," said the Senator, "in light of the findings of the Surgeon General's Advisory Committee Report of 1964."

THE STORY IN $ — Supplementing the frequently cited figure of more than 40,000 lives lost annually in motor traffic accidents, the Insurance Information Institute comes up with a dollar loss estimate. In the first two months of 1966, losses in property damage, medical expenses, lost wages, and other items amounted to $1,733,000,000.

DRUG SAFETY — Establishment of national "early warning system," complete with computer equipment, to alert doctors to possibly harmful effects that may be present in any new drugs, was forecast by Dr. Jean K. Weston, director of the American Medical Association's Council on Drugs. He felt that this would be an efficient way of preventing "significant and unnecessary harm" to patients, while abolishing safe drugs from unfounded suspicion. Says Rocky Uses Immoral Amount to Buy Election

NEW YORK (AP) — Democratic State Chairman John Burns charges that Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is "spending an immoral amount of money to try to buy this election."

Eugene H. Nickerson, Nassau County executive who withdrew from the contest for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination a week ago, says the Republican governor is using his fortune to "pollute the democratic process."

The charges, made Sunday, were answered by Republican State Chairman Carl Spad who said: "Mr. Burns and Mr. Nickerson are lying like hell."

Spad, also answering a Democratic charge that Rockefeller was buying up all available billboard space, said in a statement that the governor hasn't bought any. "Our agency has recommended against the use of billboards," Spad said.

Rockefeller, seeking a third four-year term, spent Sunday at home.

City Council President Frank D. O'Connor, front-runner for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, was reported resting at the New Jersey shore.

Another contender for the nomination, Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., also did no Sunday campaigning.

The third, Canandaigua industrialist Howard J. Samuels, made a series of campaign stops in Westchester County.

Samuels' headquarters claimed the support of seven Suffolk County delegates to the Democratic State Convention in Buffalo next month. A Samuels spokesman said the seven were the delegates who stayed with Nickerson when 27 of the county's delegates declared for O'Connor. This vote was about the final blow that led Nickerson to quit the nomination race.

Burns, who spoke on the taped WOR-TV "New York Report" program, called the Republican headquarters at the New York Hilton "the Taj Mahal." He said the contrast with Democratic accommodations was so great that "we might get some poverty funds."

Sees O'Connor in Lead

Burns said O'Connor seems "obviously to be well in the lead" for the nomination at this time. But he added: "In politics you never know what's going to happen until it happens." Burns said "there doesn't seem to be any movement for any unannounced candidate at this time."

The Democratic state chairman said polls taken by the party show "any Democratic candidate beating Mr. Rockefeller."

Burns said there should be a Negro on the Democrats' statewide ticket because the party wants Negroes "to participate in the highest levels of government."

Nickerson's charge that Rockefeller was using money to "pollute the democratic process" was made in an interview after an appearance on the WNBC-TV "Searchlight" program.

Nickerson said on the program that O'Connor can beat Rockefeller without the help of the Liberal party, but he said it will be a close contest.

Leaders of the Liberal party have talked of running a gubernatorial candidate of their own.

George Washington would accept no salary for the Presidency.

ROTARY ANTIQUE SHOW — Some 1,500 were in attendance at the second annual antique and art show sale and vintage automobile display sponsored by Kingston Rotary Club at Dietz Memorial Stadium Saturday. There were a record number of exhibitors, who came from

Woes of Urban Life Discussed At Coast Meeting

C. David Locks, president of Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress, Inc., and Pattern Chairman Lelen F. Sillin Jr. last week attended the annual conference of the American Institute of Planners in Portland, Ore. Locks is president of AIP.

The conference was "Optimum Environment with Man as the Measure." Many problems of urban life were discussed in relation to their impact on cities over the next 50 years. Social, biological, psychological, health and urban growth problems were explored by some of the nation's best minds. Ideas were exchanged by the 900 members of many professions in attendance.

"The conference suggests taking a hard look at what we actually want to develop as good environment in this country," said Locks. "We have heard some excellent ideas that will be of great help to us in the Mid-Hudson Region. We have examined such subjects as air and water pollution, education, mental health, housing and neighborhood development and future form of our cities."

"The exciting thing to me," he went on, "is that these are subjects no longer simply the concern of planners. The wide interest of others in this conference has proved that the American people are ready to get down to the business of creating a better environment. The conference stressed that all segments of the population must participate in building future American cities. This is the fundamental approach being taken by Pattern for Progress which I think constitutes its greatest strength," said Locks. Locks will assume his duties as the first president of Pattern for Progress Sept. 1.

Satellites Will Stalk Animals For Biologists

By JIM STROTHMAN

AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —

Biologists may not have the stamina to swim behind whales, romp through African jungles chasing elephants or stomp around frigid Arctic regions after polar bears. But they have found a friend to do it for them — an orbiting satellite.

Stalking animals will become one of many chores for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's versatile Nimbus weather satellites, starting with Nimbus 3 to be launched late next year.

Biologists and conservationists want to know more about migratory habits of beasts to prevent animal species from becoming extinct and help them learn what secret migratory sense steers animals to destinations hundreds of miles away. They want answers to questions like:

How do migrating sea turtles find Ascension Island? Where do certain animals go which disappear for months at a time? Do animals navigate by the sun, stars or perhaps magnetic waves?

Navigation System

The navigation system used by whales or sea turtles could be used to steer submarines. Whatever guides ducks and geese southward in winter and north in summer may be useful to aircraft. The caribou's system may aid guidance methods for land vehicles.

Biologists working with the Smithsonian Institution plan to attach special electronic packages to large land animals when Nimbus 3 orbits the globe. The devices are to beam signals that will permit the satellite to plot the animals' location at least twice daily to an accuracy of 1 1/2 miles.

Plans call for the packs to be attached first to large animals, such as elephants, whales, turtles, caribou and polar bears. Each pack weighs about 25 pounds, but researchers for NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center said they may eventually be reduced to about two pounds so biologists can get information on migratory habits of smaller animals as well.

The devices were developed primarily to send weather information — temperature, pressure and humidity readings — from remote ground stations to orbiting Nimbus. As the satellite speeds around the Earth, it relays the readings from the packs to weathermen to help them make worldwide forecasts.

Conestoga 'Stogies'

The word stogie to denote a certain type of cigar, often of the low-priced type, stems from a shortened form of Conestoga, a city in Pennsylvania noted for its cigar production, as well as its wagon factories, in the 18th and 19th centuries.

Resemblance May Be Misleading In Comedy Series

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When a new comedy series called "Family Affair" replaces reruns of "Hazel" on CBS soon, it may seem awfully familiar.

Where have we seen before the swinging bachelor with his manservant who suddenly becomes a foster parent? Sure, "Bachelor Father."

The basic situation of "Family Affair" is the swinging bachelor and his manservant who acquire three wards. But where "Bachelor Father" had John Forsythe as the gay blade and Sammee Tong as his Chinese houseman, the new series has Brian Keith as the man-about-town and Sebastian Cabot as his gentleman's gentleman.

But this surface resemblance may be misleading. After all, there are at least only a double handful of situations suitable for a series. Its real parent is "My Three Sons," the long-playing series on the same network.

In this one we had Fred MacMurray playing a widower with three sons, plus an elderly male relative helping out with the household and child-rearing chores — really not too different.

By an extraordinary coincidence, the producer of "My Three Sons" is also the creator and producer of "Family Affair." It is also being put together in a complicated jig-saw puzzle fashion that was invented by necessity for the parent series.

Producer Don Fedderson wanted MacMurray to play the widowed father. Since MacMurray, in great demand for films, didn't want to tie himself into a TV show, he agreed to shoot all the star's scenes for "My Three Sons" in a stated number of days, thus freeing him for other jobs.

This was great for MacMurray, but in getting the bugs out of the system it created unhappiness for the rest of the cast.

Now Keith is in the catbird seat, committed to only 75 work days on the new series. The rest of the cast will toil on, filling out the rest of the stories.

Cabot, a formidable scene stealer, is well remembered for his role as a professor of criminology in the "Checkmate" series.

"It took me more than three years to shake that British — or New England — professor image," he said.

Since then he has enjoyed himself playing guest star roles — "Just great, because you can get into a character, play it, and get on to something else."

Will "Family Affair" be a success? Nobody knows, of course, but both of its immediate ancestors did well. However, neither one of them ever had competing "Peyton Place" to contend with.

Shortage of Nurses At State Hospitals

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A joint legislative committee plans to initiate a series of health-program hearings next month by focusing on what the chairman terms a "crucial" shortage of nurses at state hospitals.

Sen. Norman F. Lent, R-East Rockaway, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on the Problems of Public Health and Medicare, said Sunday the 12-member committee would meet in New York City Sept. 26-27.

Lent, commenting here after a weekend meeting at Lake Placid, said testimony was planned on licensing restrictions imposed on foreign-trained nurses who seek to practice in the state and on the possibility of recruiting more Negro women into the profession.

Municipal hospitals now "tolerate" a nursing shortage that ranges up to 70 per cent, he said.

Mother of Four Killed by Blast From Shotgun

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Joan E. Seibold, 33, of Buffalo, the mother of four, was shot fatally Sunday when a 12-gauge shotgun, handled by her husband, Robert, 33, told them he was removing the gun from the rack in a bedroom when it slipped from his grasp. The weapon then discharged, hitting Mrs. Seibold, who was standing in the bedroom doorway, in the face.

Seibold said he was not aware the shotgun was loaded. No charge has been filed against him, police said. The Seibolds live at 78 Custer St.

Detectives said the woman's husband, Robert, 33, told them he was removing the gun from the rack in a bedroom when it slipped from his grasp. The weapon then discharged, hitting Mrs. Seibold, who was standing in the bedroom doorway, in the face.

ETV to Telecast State Conventions

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — Live telecasts will be carried on the state political conventions in Buffalo and Rochester Sept. 7 and 8 by five educational television stations simultaneously. The stations, which will be linked for the events, are WMHT, Schenectady, WNDT, New York City, WCNY, Syracuse, WNEB, Buffalo, and WXXI, Rochester.

Eastman Kodak Co., Rochester, donated $30,000 for the operation.

Town of Ulster GOP Club Annual Picnic

The Town of Ulster Republican Club will hold its 6th annual picnic Sunday, August 28 at St. Liberata Pavilion and Picnic Grounds in East Kingston, beginning at 1 p. m. Tickets are available from any member of the Club or may be purchased at the picnic on Sunday. This is a very popular affair and a capacity crowd is expected. Republican candidates also will be present.

There will be games and awards for the children and refreshments will be served. The picnic committee, under chairmanship of Ed Callahan, has been very busy planning for this event.

Two Men Killed In Plane Crash In Olean Area

FARMERSVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Two men were killed Sunday night when their single-engine plane crashed on a farm near this community northeast of Olean.

The Cattaraugus County sheriff's office said the bodies of pilot Edward C. Schiavi, 43, and passenger Carleton C. Stout, 37, both of Wellsville, were found when the wreckage was discovered about midnight. The plane, a Beechcraft Bonanza enroute from Buffalo to Wellsville, apparently experienced motor trouble, deputies said.

Residents of the rural area had notified local fire departments that they heard what appeared to be the sounds of a plane in difficulty at low altitude, deputies said. The ceiling, the sheriff's office said, was at "house-top level."

Deputies said the wreckage indicated the pilot attempted an emergency landing and the plane struck the bank of a drainage ditch on the William Gilmore Farm, off Route 88.

The aircraft was owned by Palmer Air Motive Co. of Wellsville.

Stout's address was 111 Pine St. while Schiavi lived on Bolivar Road.

Plattsburgh Woman Drowns, Boat Mishap

POTTERSVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Margaret T. Senecal, 64, of Plattsburgh, was drowned Sunday when a boat capsized on Loon Lake south of this resort hamlet in the eastern Adirondacks.

State Police said Mrs. Senecal apparently attempted to stand up in the 12-foot-long craft and was struck on the head when the boat overturned.

30 Days in Jail For Possession Of Marijuana

An investigation by Town of Plattekill constables and State Police on Saturday, resulted in the arrest of Raymond Agostino, 25, of 300 Morris Avenue, Bronx, on a charge of illegal possession of narcotics.

Agostino pleaded guilty to having marijuana cigarettes in his possession when apprehended by Trooper Robert Whalen of Highland and town constables. The man was sentenced by Justice of the Peace James Palen of the Town of Plattekill, to 30 days in the Ulster County jail or $100 fine.

In lieu of payment of the fine, Agostino was committed for 30 days. The arrest was made at about 4 p. m. Saturday after a joint investigation by troopers and the town constabulary.

On Stabbing Charge

Likely was accused of stabbing Ernest Roberts, 18, a farm employee, causing injuries that necessitated 12 sutures at Kingston Hospital, according to Trooper G. W. Zappolo.

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Rexford Schneider, Town of New Paltz, Likely pleaded innocent to a second degree assault charge. A preliminary examination was set for tonight and the defendant was committed to the county jail pending further investigation.

Speedy Novelist

World's fastest novelist is said to be Eric Stanley Gardner, American mystery writer, who dictates up to 10,000 words a day and works on as many as seven novels simultaneously.

Why We Say--

HARD WORK: When we "buckled down" today we are getting set for hard work. The expression began with the process of buckling down the knight's armor as he prepared for battle.

Fulton Lewis Jr. Is Heart Victim, Funeral Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Broadcaster and columnist Fulton Lewis Jr., a voice of conservative American thinking for three decades, is dead of a heart attack at 63.

He died early Sunday in a Washington hospital, where he had undergone surgery for pancreatitis two months ago.

In recent years he had two daily newscasts on the Mutual Broadcasting System and wrote a syndicated column, "Washington Reports," which appeared in more than 200 newspapers across the country.

Lewis once said he felt he was the man who spoke for the small-town businessman, "Mr. Average Listener," who had a home in the suburbs, a mortgage and children.

He had stated his personal and professional credo this way:

"The public has no idea of the gypping it is taking, of how often the wool is pulled over its eyes. This is very serious business, the people are supposed to be running the show; actually they are often being duped."

"I am dedicated to change that."

Lewis began his radio work in 1937 after serving as a reporter and later as city editor of the old Washington Herald, a Hearst newspaper, and as a Washington correspondent for the Universal Service and International News Service. He was a war correspondent during World War II.

A spokesman for the Mutual Broadcasting System said Lewis' son, Fulton Lewis III, may continue the radio program, "The Top of the News."

Surviving with his widow, Alice, and his son is a daughter, Alice Elizabeth.

Memorial services will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at St. David's Episcopal Church in Washington. Burial will be private.

Slander vs. Libel

A person who tells something false likely to injure the reputation or good name of another person may be charged with slander; writing or printing a similar false statement is called libel.

Public Sentiment
In Disagreement
With Jury Panel

If the Outdoor Art Exhibit of the Saugerties Public Library is now considered past history, it still makes interesting reading in retrospect and in light of the many highlights which resulted.

The Aug. 13 open air show of art here on the library grounds drew an unbelievable 135 entries, all original paintings submitted by amateur and professional resident artists of the Saugerties area. A panel of distinguished judges, composed of Woodstock artists Robert Angeloch, Stefan Lokos and John Pike, selected four winners and gave nine honorable mentions. Work entered was so superior that the judges found it impossible to designate only three winners, as originally planned.

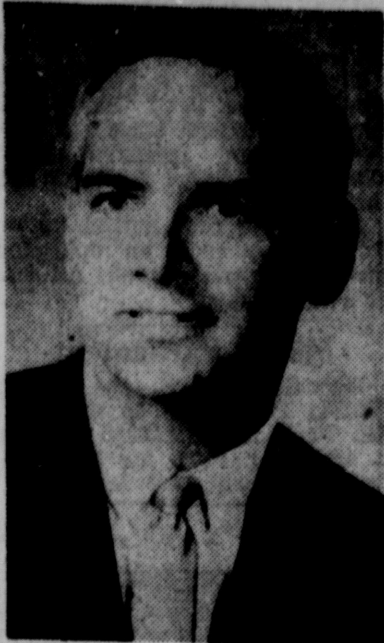

First prize went to Miss Aleda Schoonmaker, 7 Main Street, for her watercolor, Stone House. Miss Bonnie Fous, 40 Elm Street, won second prize for her oil painting entitled Still Life. Third prize was awarded to Mrs. Made Niemans, 19 John Street, for Early Spring, an oil painting. Charles Bryson of High Woods took fourth prize for his Zena Reservoir watercolor.

Honorable Mentions
Honorable mentions were given to Hal Boyer, Kathleen Collins, Roy Ickes, Laura Knaust, Ann Matthews, Mildred Montano, Barbara Russell, Ann C. Scala and Jean Wroslan. All the prizes were specially selected fine art books.

A novel idea was the inclusion in the show of a ballot box which was available for the public to vote for its own favorite paintings in the exhibit. This gave those attending an opportunity to choose artists other than the winners named and those selected for honorable mentions.

Public and judges disagreed completely. Saugertiesians picked two artists who did not even appear on the judging list of 13. The popular vote showed a tie between Joseph Benjamin's oil landscape, Hudson River, Winter, and Lucille T. Ruocco's oil entitled Floral.

The event was largely attended. More than 300 persons signed the registration book but many who came failed to register. Those attending the show, which was held on a beautiful, sunny day, expressed a desire to see the exhibit become an annual event.

Rotarians Plan
Funds Project
For Philippines

Rotary Club of Saugerties will go all out shortly in a drive to raise funds for training and providing leadership needed to develop a village in the Philippines which has been selected for a special project.

Announcement of this '66 program was made by president Dr. Dexter O. Aruold at last week's meeting. Members also heard highlights of the district governor's monthly letter at the session.

Plans were also finalized for the club's "Sail-Away" Tuesday. Herman Snyder has been handling reservations for this outing affair and those participating will leave the Boat Club at 5:30 p. m. on the day of the event.

The local club hosted a Rotarian from Cleveland, Ohio, at its recent meeting. He was Fred J. Wonders, who is studying at the John Pike Watercolor School in Woodstock.

Directors Meeting
Directors of the club also met recently at the home of the president to discuss and take action on the planned project to restore the Old Sawyer Mill here. Other items pondered: proposed fund raising activities, joint Rotary Club meetings and membership growth.

Named to serve as a social committee were James Dargan and Merlin Snyder. They will discuss their unique ideas at the Aug. 30 meeting of the club. Members are also reminded to forward make up cards to Snyder, who is also accepting current dues.

Create New Post
For Harry Ashby

Ferrocube Corporation, at Saugerties, has just announced the appointment of Harry Ashby to the position of assistant to the president. The announcement was made by N. W. Buoymaster, president of Ferrocube, a leading manufacturer of electronic components for the computer and telecommunications industries.

The position of assistant to the president is a newly created post and Ashby will have overall responsibility for both industrial relations and personnel administration.

Prior to joining Ferrocube, Ashby was with Curtis-Wright Corporation as director of personnel administration. He is a graduate of Colorado State University with a degree in business administration. He presently resides with his wife and daughter at 4 Patricia Lane, Woodstock.

Expecting 3,785
Pupils—No Split
Session Planned

Through utilization of the remedial room at the new Grant D. Morse School and assignment of three sessions of kindergarten to each kindergarten room rather than the usual two, the Saugerties Central School District will be able to keep all pupils on full sessions although enrollment continues to mount and each year sets a new record.

During the 1965-66 school year, all pupils were placed on full session for the first time in five years. Both elementary and secondary schools had been forced into the split session situation by the population growth following school centralization and establishment of new industries in the Saugerties area.

Peak enrollment during the 1965-66 school year totaled 3,663 pupils. Superintendent of Schools Dr. Dexter O. Arnold estimates a total of 3,785 pupils for 1966-67 with 2,281 expected in elementary schools, 792 in Junior High School, 660 in Senior High School and 52 in special classes.

He said, "The fine opportunities for both residential and industrial growth in the Saugerties area create a combination that apparently will continue to attract newcomers. We are anticipating future growth and are planning to meet needs of the 1967-68 school year and for several years to come by constructing additions to the Glasco and Mt. Marion elementary schools. Preliminary plans are now being drafted which will add 17 elementary classrooms, plus other facilities required by larger enrollments. As soon as these plans have been completed and approved, and cost estimates prepared, voters of the District will be asked to vote a bond issue to provide funds for the addition. Every effort is being made to complete all necessary steps to insure completion of building by the beginning of the 1967 school year. If the work can be accomplished on schedule, split sessions will be avoided for some years to come."

Figures Submitted
Total enrollment submitted to the State Education Department indicates the growth of the school population here in recent years and points up exactly why voters will be asked to lend approval to a bond issue this fall. Enrollment over the past eight years soared as follows: 2,365 in 1958-59; 2,536 for 1959-60; 2,750 during 1960-61; 2,896 in 1961-62; 3,144 for 1962-63; 3,329 during 1963-64; 3,552 for the 1964-65 period; and 3,649 in 1965-66.

tion seeks to provide excellence in education through quality teaching by competent, responsible, professional teachers and strives for professional conditions of work that permit full utilization of the teacher, officers say.

Each year the STA provides a $300 scholarship to be given to a graduating senior who plans on furthering his education. In addition, this year a special education project is also proposed. The details of this system wide project will be announced later.

Dancing School
Opening Shortly

Mrs. Pat Moore will open a Saugerties dance school shortly for students aged five years and older. Classes for both beginners and advanced students will be offered in tap dancing, ballet and modern jazz.

Registration will be held Saturday, Sept. 10, from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m., at the Roger Donlon Auditorium. Mrs. Moore says she expects to hold three or four classes on Saturdays and others on weekdays, as announced. Pat Moore is a graduate of Curry College, Boston, and has had 10 years of teaching experience in the field of dancing. She operated a dance studio in Massachusetts for several years and also taught for the Linkletter-Totten chain of dance schools in Bethesda, Md. More recently, she served as instructor for the Saugerties Jaycees dancing classes locally and has given private lessons at her home here.

Parents interested in additional information are invited to telephone Mrs. Moore at Woodland Acres.

Students Attend
International Day

Two Saugerties High School students represented the school at International Youth Day at Camp Rising Sun, Rhinebeck, Aug. 14.

Students selected were Michele Mauro, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael A. Mauro, RFD 4, Flatbush Road, and David Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ellis, Simmons Park.

Twenty-three other schools from the Hudson Valley each sent two representatives to the camp. Students met at the Beekman Arms Hotel, Rhinebeck, and were transported by bus to the camp.

They had an opportunity to meet and talk with boys from 19 foreign countries and 40 from various parts of the United States who attend the camp for the summer, all selected to attend because of their outstanding abilities.

Youngsters toured the camp, and were served a buffet lunch and participated in a sing-together. Guest speaker, Kwame Adukel Poku of Ghana, from the United Nations, gave a talk on "Africa of the Future" after which there was a discussion and question and answer period.

Meeting and mingling with foreign boys and new people made it an enjoyable and enlightening day for all students who were part of the International Youth Day at Camp Rising Sun, sponsored by Rotary Club of Rhinebeck, local youngsters said.

King Expresses Views on Hatred, Open Housing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. says lower-income groups are the principal source among Northern whites for a "massive outpouring of hatred" against Negroes.

King said these whites "have grown up believing in certain stereotypes, whether it is the stereotype of the Negroes are lazy, or inherently inferior, or whether it is the myth that Negroes deprecate property values when they move into a community."

King appeared Sunday with five other Negroes prominent in civil rights affairs on a special 90-minute version of the NBC radio-television program "Meet the Press."

He took part in the program from a Chicago television studio, leaving before it ended to lead another demonstration march in all-white areas on Chicago's Southwest Side and suburbs. The other panelists were in a Washington studio.

The Chicago demonstrations, King said, have brought into the open "many latent hostilities already existing within certain white groups in the North."

Asked whether perhaps the majority of white people in the nation don't want a Negro for a neighbor, the rights leader agreed there are some whites against open housing. But he added that "this does not mean that we don't go all out to end housing discrimination."

Others on the program included James H. Meredith, who became the first known Negro at the University of Mississippi and was shot from ambush on a voter registration drive in Mississippi last June.

During questioning, Meredith advocated organizing vigilante groups to hunt down untried killers of Negroes.

The other panelists were Stokely Carmichael, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee; Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; Floyd B. McKissick, director of the Congress of Racial Equality, and Whitney M. Young Jr., executive director of the National Urban League.

The six seemingly agreed that what King called the "tragic gulf between promise and fulfillment" for Negroes is growing worse at some points. In general, they said, the civil rights movement is not accomplishing enough fast enough.

Carmichael again attacked the Viet Nam war, saying Negro soldiers there are black mercenaries.

Woman to Appear
On Driving Charge

A 23-year-old woman was cited by State Police on a charge of driving a motor vehicle at speed not reasonable and prudent after her car went out of control on Route 212, Town of Saugerties, early Saturday.

According to Trooper Richard Dempsey, Mildred Beare, of RD 1, Box 232, Saugerties, is slated to appear at a later date before Justice of the Peace Calvin Cody, Town of Saugerties, on the violation.

Trooper R. M. Malloy investigated the mishap and reported the Beare car went out of control on a left curve, went off the right side of the highway into a private parking lot where it reportedly hit a vehicle owned by the J & D Leasing Company of Bellmore. The impact pushed the parked vehicle into another owned by Willard Whitehead of Saugerties after hitting the porch of the D'Elia's Restaurant, troopers said.

Cairo Man Is Still Missing,
Alarms Are Out

Teletype alarms have been sent out by State Police asking authorities throughout the East to assist in a search for Michael Weiss, 79, who has been missing from the home of his daughter in Cairo, since Aug. 11.

Weiss was last seen by his daughter, Mrs. Norma Bondy, who said her father apparently left their home during the day but could give no further clues to his disappearance. Search parties had combed the rugged woodlands for several days but found no trace of the missing man.

Troopers at Leeds called off the organized search several days ago, but are still seeking leads that might lead to the finding of the missing man.

The area where Weiss was last seen is close to the mountainous terrain where Debra Smith, 7-year-old daughter of Staff Sergeant and Mrs. John R. Smith of Maryland, was lost two days before she was found by two youths on a mountain top.

Plan Bus Trip
To Middletown
State Hospital

The air-conditioned bus, regularly chartered by the Ulster County Association for Mental Health, to run to Middletown Hospital once a month, will operate on the last Sunday of this month, Aug. 28.

The special bus is for the convenience of persons wishing to visit patients at the State Hospital. Medical authorities are united in recognition of the tremendous importance which contact with relatives and friends and the whole outside community plays in the recovery of patients suffering from emotional and mental illness.

Because of this, and the fact that convenient public transportation from the Kingston-New Paltz area is not otherwise available to Middletown, this special service is provided by the local mental health group. The Association is a voluntary organization, and a member of the Community Chest.

Departure times for the bus are as follows: Kingston, at the Park Diner, 11:45 a. m.; Rosendale, at The Elms, Noon; and New Paltz, Grand Union, 12:10 p. m., corner of Main and N. Chestnut Streets.

If requested in advance, the bus also will stop in Wallkill, Malden or Montgomery.

The bus leaves the hospital at 4 p. m. and returns to Kingston by 5:30 p. m., stopping as requested on the return journey.

Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Edwin C. Shults in Saugerties. The office of the Ulster County Association is closed for vacation until next Tuesday.

Mrs. Schoemmel, who had lived here for 20 years, set a 14 hour, 11 minute record for a 44½-mile swim around Manhattan on Sept. 19, 1926. Other long-distance courses included the Niagara River.

Social Security Changes Outlined

"Just 10 years ago this month, on August 1, 1956, the social security law was broadened to provide monthly cash benefits to totally disabled workers between the ages of 50 and 65," George J. Habernig, district manager of social security in Kingston, said today.

"From that beginning, just a decade ago, the social security disability program has steadily grown and developed. In 1958, Congress made it possible to pay benefits to dependents of disabled workers exactly the same as to those of retired workers. The 1960 amendments removed age 50 as the earliest age that disability insurance benefits could be paid, with the Congress recognizing that the needs of a younger disabled worker could be as great as not greater than those of an older worker."

In 1965, the law was changed to eliminate the requirement that the disability be of a kind that could be expected to continue indefinitely and substituted the qualification that the disability must have lasted or be expected to last at least 12 months," he said.

Another change in the law in 1965 provides that if a worker who has applied for reduced retirement benefits between the ages of 62 and 65 becomes disabled, he may apply for the higher disability benefits. Previously he pointed out, this was impossible.

The Social Security Administration has always been interested in the rehabilitation of disabled workers. Built into the disability program has been a requirement that all applicants for benefits should be referred to the State's vocational rehabilitation agency for consideration for services that might restore them to a productive role in the community.

Under the new law, funds are being advanced out of the Federal disability insurance trust fund to help the State agencies provide these services. This should benefit everybody concerned, he said. The disabled themselves, who might be able once again to go back to their old jobs or be placed in employment within the range of their capabilities would certainly be benefited. The communities would profit by the return to work of one of their residents. And the social security disability insurance trust fund would be safeguarded against losses through payments to people who could be brought back to an active career through special therapy and retraining.

A living example of the growth and development of the social security disability program is a New York State resident, a victim of a 1963 accident, who in February of this year was added to the disability rolls, which now exceed one million beneficiaries.

Although he is 51 years old, his age was not a factor in qualifying him for payments. His wife and daughter, also receive monthly benefits on his earnings record. His disability, while severe, is not expected to last indefinitely. To hasten the day when he will again be able to work, he is receiving special rehabilitation services from the New York State Vocational Rehabilitation Agency, Habernig said.

For more information about the disability program please visit the Kingston district office, 57 Albany Avenue or write for Booklet Number 29.

Seek Postponement Of Seaway Tolls

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson had on his desk today an appeal from 49 congressmen to seek an agreement with Canada postponing for one year a proposed 10 per cent increase in St. Lawrence Seaway tolls.

In a letter to Johnson made public Saturday, 15 senators and 34 representatives said the interval was needed to give Congress time to act on legislation that would make a toll increase unnecessary.

The measure would reorganize the Seaway's financial structure and ease the financial burden placed on the waterway by the 1954 St. Lawrence Seaway Act.

They said an increase in tolls would result in a drop in seaway traffic.

PLANNING REACT PROGRAM — Recently organized by a group of area residents who operate on Citizens Band Radio, the Ulster County Radio Emergency Association Citizens Team, urges the public to donate books, magazines and jigsaw puzzles for distribution to veterans in hospitals and shut-ins. Robert Meyer, commander of the Town of Ulster American Legion Post, was guest speaker at a recent meeting held at Ray's Riverside on Ferry Street. Mrs. James Allen, a member of the group, has received a letter of appreciation from the chief librarian at the Albany VA Hospital for the offer of pocket novels, magazines and other items that will be distributed among some 300 patients. REACT is a nationwide organization organized to provide veterans in hospitals and shut-ins with reading material and interesting games. Drop-off points where donations of such material may be left are the homes of Mrs. Beatrice Connelly, 89 Stephan Street; Ronald North, 39 Murray Street; Mrs. James Allen, RD 3, Box 298, Saugerties; Myers Meat Market, Lake Katrine; 9W Service Station, or the offices of WGHQ. Discussing future plans are: (seated l-r) Fran Allen, publicity director; James B. Seneca Falls Soon Will Be College Town

By DON HADLEY
The Geneva Times

SENECA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — This village in New York's picturesque Finger Lakes section, attuned to the hum of industry, is keenly awaiting the benefits of higher education.

Within a year, Seneca Falls will be a college town. The first wave of a 1,500-student complement will be attending a shiny new institution named for former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Eisenhower College, a projected four-year, coeducational liberal arts school, will begin taking shape in September when construction starts on five buildings.

The prospect of an operating college—with an anticipated $3-million annual boost to the area economy—has stirred activity by the village and its residents.

Streets and intersections are being widened to cope with increased traffic. New traffic control systems are planned. Real estate developers completed three apartment projects within the last year. Villagers are sharing in a campaign for funds to help the college get started.

The college thus far has received $1.5 million in pledges and $3.2 million in federal grants and low-interest loans. College President John C. Rosenkrans predicts $2.5 million will be raised in a national campaign pegged to President and Mrs. Eisenhower's golden wedding anniversary.

Rosenkrans, a Seneca Falls insurance broker before his appointment to head the college, said construction of 30 buildings on the 215-acre campus overlooking Lake Cayuga will be scheduled over a 10-year period. Admittedly inexperienced in higher education, Rosenkrans is depending upon a staff of trained administrators to operate the college.

The staff will include Dr. Earl J. McGrath, former U.S. commissioner of education and a former chancellor of the University of Kansas; Dr. W. Robert Bokelman, former chief of the business administration section of the U.S. Office of Education; and Joseph D. Coffee, former assistant to the president of Columbia University. McGrath has been named chancellor; Bokelman and Coffee, vice presidents.

The board of trustees is headed by Adm. Lewis L. Strauss, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. Members include James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's White House press secretary and now an executive of the American Broadcasting Co., and Dr. Kevin McCann, former president of Defiance College who was a speech writer for Eisenhower.

New Campsite

Mentally retarded young people will be able to enjoy the type of summer vacation at camp that other children experience through the development of a campsite at Wilton in Saratoga County, Governor Rockefeller announced today.

Site preparation work for the camp, to be located adjacent to the proposed Wilton State School for the Retarded, will be underway this month, the Governor said, with the construction scheduled to begin in September. The camp, a state Department of Mental Hygiene facility, is expected to be completed and ready for use early next summer.

Estimated to cost approximately $200,000, the new camp will serve residents of other state schools for the retarded as well as Wilton. Further, the department is exploring the possibility of accepting retarded children living at home in the area, affording them the opportunity to enjoy "two weeks at camp" in the summer.

Worth Knowing

A student gave us an excerpt from his notes on the amazing Leonardo da Vinci (1452-1519): "Much information about him, his art and inventions, come from a huge volume of manuscripts preserved in museums and libraries. There are some 3,500 closely pages in his left-handed script, with several thousand drawings. There was almost no aspect of the physical world which he did not delve into and write about. Life-size models of machines invented by da Vinci have been made from his drawings, some of which were centuries ahead of his time. One was a war chariot, easily recognized as the forerunner of a 20th century military tank or car. All this was in addition to his inspired painting, which caused him to stand out as one of history's most remarkable men." When you get our service and solid value you'll agree they too are remarkable!

Woman Gaining, Has 'Heart Pump'

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Esperanza del Valle Vasquez of Mexico City, who received an artificial heart pump Aug. 8 to aid her damaged heart, continues to progress satisfactorily and is able to leave her hospital room for brief periods.

The mechanical device, or left ventricular bypass, was removed last Thursday because doctors said Mrs. Vasquez's heart had healed enough that the pump was no longer needed.

Methodist Hospital said Sunday that Mrs. Vasquez, 39, "continues to progress well in every way."

A hospital advisory said "because of her growing strength Mrs. Vasquez was able to go by wheelchair to the X-ray department, in another part of the building, for the X-rays which are made often."

Until Sunday the X-rays had been made in her room, the statement said.

Mrs. Vasquez, a beauty shop operator, has lived longer than any other patient known to have received an artificial heart pump. She passed her 14th day Sunday.

She is the fifth person known to undergo such an operation and the second woman. All other patients died.

DON'T MAKE YOUR FRIENDS TWIDDLE THEIR THUMBS FOR YOU

Dear Mrs. Post: I live in the suburbs and the other day a city friend asked me to spend the day with her. I rarely get into town, and when I arrived I asked her if she would mind if I went over to see an elderly aunt who only lived a couple of blocks away. She said "no," and I went and spent an hour before lunch with my aunt. The atmosphere was a little cool when I got back, so now I'm wondering if I was rude. What is your opinion?

—Margaret L.
Dear Margaret: I think I might have breathed a little chill into the air if I'd been in your friend's shoes. You might have improved the situation by either leaving a little early to see your aunt, or if you felt the middle of the day was a better time, suggested that your friend go with you. To leave her twiddling her thumbs while you visited wasn't the most appreciative way to thank her for her invitation!

Help to Protect His Pocketbook

Dear Mrs. Post: My boy friend is going to visit me for the weekend soon and I'd like to know how I can pay for everything without embarrassing him. He doesn't have any extra spending money and I feel that the cost of his traveling is all that he should have to pay.—Louise

Dear Louise: Plan picnics and meals at home or at your club so that he will not have to pay any restaurant bills. If you are going to any entertainment which requires tickets, buy them ahead of time. Ask friends in instead of planning to go to movies or any place where he will have to pay. With a little careful planning you should be able to avoid any problem.

Wedding Invitation to Two Sisters and a Brother

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to know the correct way to address a wedding invitation to two sisters and a brother all living at the same address.—Julie

Dear Julie: Correctly, one envelope is addressed to the Misses and a separate one to the brother. What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that we receive each week, we'll send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette, revised by Elizabeth L. Post. The question chosen and its answer, will be published in this column every Friday. Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper, and don't forget to include your name and address. (A Bell-McClure Syndicate Feature)

Miss Karen Sue Ohlson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ohlson of RD 2, Kingston, exchanged marriage vows with Harold Frederick Hommel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Hommel of Saugerties, on Saturday, Aug. 13, 1966 at 10 a. m. in St. Colman's Church, East Kingston, N. Y.

White gladioli, pompons and fern decorated the church for the occasion.

Mrs. Robert Grinner of Troy, sister of the bridegroom, was the matron of honor. She wore a blue lace sheath styled with a matching jacket. She wore also blue accessories and carried a hand bouquet of Georgiana orchids with blue stephanotis.

Robert Grinner of Troy was best man.

A wedding reception was given at Leherbs for members of the immediate families.

Grace, Ranier Dunked
PORTO CERVO, Sardinia (AP) — Princess Grace of Monaco and her husband, Prince Ranier, fell into the sea Sunday off Porto Cervo while watching a boat race from a small sailboat.

The American-born princess and the prince were toppled into the water when a sudden gust of wind caught their sail and sharply tipped the craft.

Laughing and splashing, they swam to another boat, climbed aboard and continued watching the race.

Dear Abby . . .

Bench Warmer Will Have His Chance

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: This is for "BENCH-WARMER'S MOTHER."

Dear Lady:
I am a 12-year-old Little Leaguer and if your son is in the same kind of league I am in, there may be a reason why he isn't playing much. The boys are 10, 11, and 12 years old. The 10-year-olds are there mostly to learn, so they don't get to play much. The 11-year-olds get to play a little more, but the 12-year-olds do most of the playing because they have had more practice and are naturally the best players.

But those 12-year-olds waited two years, warming the benches themselves before they got to play. I really got steamed when you said, "All the coaches and managers want to do is win." Listen, Lady, that's all the PLAYERS want to do. So if your kid is a benchwarmer, give him time. He'll play. Sincerely yours, LITTLE LEAGUER

DEAR ABBY: Re Bench-Warmers MOM: The Little League program is designed to (1) develop competitive sportsmanship in young boys, (2) improve their baseball ability. The practice sessions are arranged so that all the boys are given equal time. But the games are played to win.

Anything short of an all-out effort to win destroys the morale of the team and defeats the basic purpose of the game. Sincerely, C. F. B., M.D. LITTLE LEAGUE MGR., SENORA, TEX.

DEAR ABBY: My husband coached Little League baseball for four years, and this is his last season because he just can't take any more abuse from the parents of the kids. We talked to about a dozen fathers, trying to get someone who would help with the boys, and without exception, they were all too "busy" or they just didn't care.

You wouldn't believe the excuses we heard! So I — yes, a mother — took a team. And we won the pennant, too. Sincerely, MOTHER AND COACH

DEAR ABBY: Show me a kid who can't hit, throw or catch, and I'll show you a father who has never taken the time to play "catch" with

Consider Nuclear Explosives For Excavation Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States was reported today considering negotiations with other nuclear test-ban treaty nations to open the way for experiments with nuclear explosives in excavation projects.

Such as the building of a new sea-level canal across middle America.

A hint that such negotiations might be in prospect was contained in a report sent to Congress recently by President Johnson from the Atlantic-Pacific Inter-oceanic Canal Study Commission.

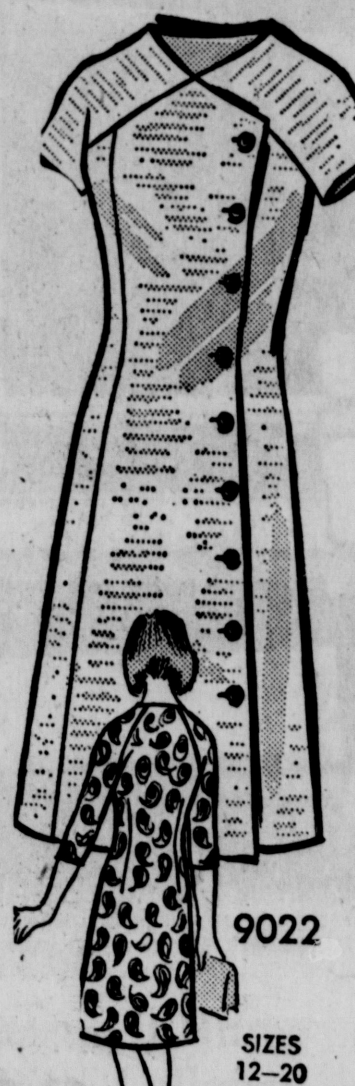

It said "as yet no negotiations" have been undertaken with the more than 100 nations which signed the treaty. The report added that the commission is "working with the secretary of state and the chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission to determine what actions should be undertaken."

Dale's Defeats Vidi-Comm, 3-2 In SSL Finale

The Saugerties Softball League finished its 72 game regular season with Dale's Sunoco nailing down undisputed possession of fifth place with a 3-2 win over Vidi-Comm.

Dick Ackersbauer's triple and Jack Lechner's double gave the winners an early 2-0 lead but Vidi-Comm bounced right back with a pair via John Salinovich's single and Al Short's sacrifice fly in the top of the fifth.

The winning tally was scored in the fifth on a walk, single and a throwing error. Maurice Hinchey evened his record for the season with the win at 7-7. Jack Hillie pitched a strong game but was saddled with the loss and finished the season at 6-8.

The league leaders were announced after this final game. Bob Spiers set the pace in hitting with a .540 mark. Rich (Moore) Marelli bombed six homers to lead in that department. There was a tie for the RBI leader with Marelli and Joe Benjamin each driving in 23. Bill Fiascoletti was the best pitcher in the league with a 8-0 record along with a 1.49 ERA. Chops Lindsay led the league in strikeouts with 88.

Thomas, Greiner Pitch Tonight's Finals at Dietz

Two one-run victories qualified Herzog Construction and Schovel's Tree Service for the City Baseball League finals tonight at Dietz Stadium.

Probable starters are Ron Thomas for Herzog's and Gary Greiner for Schovel's.

Lon McAndrew pitched shutout ball after the first inning, as Herzog's, regular champions, edged Lions Club, 2 to 1, Sunday.

Schovel's held off the seventh inning rally by the Kingston All Stars to win the other semi-final game, 6 to 5, behind Ken Heppner.

Herzog's collected only two hits off Ted Bream but Jerry Hawkins' triple and an error accounted for their two runs in the fifth. The Lions picked up a first inning tally off McAndrew when Frank McGowan doubled and Mike Weishaup singled him home. Bream struck out 12 and walked five. McAndrew had eight strikeouts to go with two walks.

Heppner wild pitched an All Star run in the first inning but Schovel's regained the lead, 2-1, in their half when Charlie Manfro got a scratch single and Gary Greiner walked with the bases loaded. A wild throw and two errors with the bases jammed accounted for three All Star tallies in the seventh. Chick Boice slammed a triple and two singles for the winners.

Greiner was the winner on a six-hitter. Lou Perry, who allowed 10 hits, took the loss.

Ulster, American and Esopus Capture LL Games

Kingston Area Tourney Opener Has 2 Shutouts

A pair of shutouts and a 9-4 slugfest were the results of the first round of the first annual Greater Kingston Area Little League championships.

The Rondout National Bank, representing the American Little League, beat the Eagles, Jaycee Champs, 5-0 behind the six-hit pitching of Jim Ferraro.

The bankers ran up a ten-game winning streak earlier this season and are considered to be one of the best teams in the area. Ferraro, a sparkplug all year, fanned 11 and stroked a double. Jim Milano had a two-bagger for the winners. Craig Struble, a good chucker in any league, took the loss. Robert Santoski led the Eagles with a pair of singles.

The other shutout was spun by Steve VanKleeck, hurling for the town of Ulster. Nyralite Tigers against the Town of Hurley Mets. Tom Jensen and Pete Palladino led the Tigers with two hits each. John Lucas and Carl Van Koglu paced the Mets with a pair of hits each, the only hits off VanKleeck in the 5-0 win. Unlike the other two games in the first round of the playoffs, this was poorly reported, omitting first names, extra base hits, strikeouts and walks.

Has 10 Strikeouts

In the third game, won by the Esopus Mets, 4-0, over the National Mets, the first four batters in the Esopus lineup combined for seven hits and eight runs. Tom Triscari went 3-4 and was the winning pitcher with 10 strikeouts. Gary Picoli had two hits and scored three runs.

Robert Medley paced the National Mets with three hits in four times at bat.

Tonight the Kingston Jaycees face the Kingston Nationals at the Jaycees field; Kingston Americans battle the Esopus Legion at the latter's field; and Hurley vs the Town of Ulster at Ulster, Rondout Valley drew a bye this round.

100-Inning Marathon Ends in 173-154 Score

Those hardy Saugerties Softball League souls didn't quite achieve their goal of a 24-hour marathon, but after 20 hours and 41 minutes of play the game ended with the first division squad leading the second division, 173 to 154.

While the game was an artistic success, the gate receipts failed to come up to expectations.

Purpose of the marathon was to raise money by hourly collections to finance a post-season barbecue. In view of the receipts, one league official said the menu at the barbecue would probably consist of a hot dog and a bottle of soda pop.

A thirty-six league players, one sponsor, many outsiders and even three female pinch hitters participated in the tilt which started at 8:19 p. m. Friday and ended 5 p. m. Saturday.

At 4:45 p. m., Jamie Todaro and Bob Campbell, the original starters, were forced to retire and the remaining "originals" went into conference. The four left at that point voted to abandon the 24-hour plan and settle on 100 innings. John Frelich cast the dissenting vote.

Declining numbers of players and the threat of sunstroke were key factors in the compromise. The four "100 inning" men were Frelich, Bob Wolven, plate umpire Jim Gage and Jack Keeley, who umpired the bases for 9 hours and played thereafter. Special credit is due to Dale Demmitt, sponsor of Dale's Sunoco team, who stuck it out for over 16 hours.

Although disappointed with fan response to the game, the players said it was quite an experience. However, they have no immediate plans for a repeat performance.

New York State Harness Roundup

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Sire Stakes move to Saratoga Raceway tonight and four sons of the great Sharpshooter meet in the event for two-year-old trotting colts and geldings.

The contest will be of top interest to harness racing fans in New York State.

Sharp Shot, Grig and Sharp Cat are given a chance at the purse, but Joe Zam is expected to lead the quartet in the $4,940 race.

Sir Cingle will be out to repeat his victory posted earlier in the season when the Stakes were at Monticello Raceway. Joe Zam finished second in that race.

In harness action in New York State Saturday: Vernon Downs — Earl Laird ($4.80) won the final leg of the August Trotting Series by 1 1/4 lengths over Speedy Play. Carson Hanover finished third in the $1,000 event, timed in 2:00 3/5.

Yonkers Raceway — Mars N. ($4.50) nipped Trader Nardin by nearly a length in the $8,000 Jamaica Pace. The time was 2:02 1/5.

Batavia Downs—Cagney Hanover ($7.60) won the $5,000 invitational pace by one length in 2:03. Baron Adios was second. Saratoga Raceway — Jessie McKiyo ($27.00) won the $2,000 pace, edging Erin O'Dudley by a nose in 2:04 3/5.

Sonny Workman Dies; Was Once Top Jockey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Raymond (Sonny) Workman, one of the nation's top jockeys in the 1930s, is dead at 57. He died Sunday at Georgetown University Hospital after a short illness.

Workman, who in 1957 was elected to the National Jockeys Hall of Fame, was the top money winner for 1932 when he rode 87 victors for a total of $385,070.

He rode many horses for Harry Payne Whitney and Whitney's son, C.V. Whitney, and for Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt.

Gottschec Shuts Out KSC, 2-0

The powerful B/W Gottschec of Brooklyn, a Premier division team, struck quickly in the first 10 minutes of play to upend the Kingston Sport Club booters, 2-0, Sunday at Oehler's Mountain Lodge.

Two Kingston players suffered injuries early in the game and were taken to Kingston Hospital. Lee Roberts needed six stitches for a cut over an eye and Walter Grassmeier suffered a broken collar bone.

Gary Baasch came off the bench to plug one of the holes but the short handed Kickers squad had to play the remainder of the game with only 10 players — one under minimum.

George Vizvary and Alex Dirks were outstanding on defense, as the locals thwarted several scoring thrust

Forgery Charged

Mark Normand, 34, of Montreal, Que., was being held for grand jury action in the Warren County Jail today, charged with second-degree forgery involving counterfeit $10 bills, the sheriff's office reported. The State Police said Normand was arrested at nearby Bolton.

Charges Still Being Levelled On Rick's Road; Possibility Of Major Development There

In the wake of recent charges by Glasco Turnpike resident, Simon Feinstein, that he had been denied access to his property from the newly built Rick's Road in Woodstock, news filtered out that other homeowners along the as-yet-unfinished thoroughfare had suffered the same fate.

Feinstein, who had unsuspectingly routed a lumber truck down Rick's and across land he thought was public on his own property, found himself accused of trespassing by local and state police. Threatened with arrest if he attempted to do the same thing again, he investigated the matter and wherefore. The cause, soon learned, was a thin 12 inch strip of land retained by Philip J. Spinelli when he transferred land to Peter Pike, which Pike later deeded to the Town of Woodstock as a right of way to Rick's.

The 12 inches separated Feinstein's property from Rick's for a distance of 674 feet up and down the road until his boundary lines ran into those of Joseph Fitzsimmons, Albert Cramer, Peter Whitehead and Albert Cashdollar. Fitzsimmons, a former Woodstock supervisor, is now Ulster County Commissioner of Welfare. Cashdollar is both a former supervisor and superintendent of highways in the township; once served as Ulster County treasurer. Whitehead, son of the man who founded the Byrdcliffe art colony which brought fame around the world, is one of the largest land owners in the area due to the fact that his father bought the major part of a mountain to house his utopian dream. Miss Cramer, a close friend of former town supervisor and current county attorney Abram F. Molyneux, and his wife would decide it was to build Rick's Road, inherited her land from her late father, the famed artist and photographer, Konrad Cramer.

No sooner had Feinstein's dilemma been bruited about than Mrs. Maurice van Buren and Samuel Beck made known through friends that their properties, too, were separated from Rick's Road by a similar 12 inches. Beck, like Feinstein, is known to have opposed the new road originally. And there was heated opposition late last year when the opening of the road was announced. Quite a few Woodstock residents, including several of the town's best known artists and some of its prominent property owners, signed a petition denouncing the road and urging the use instead of alternate roads such as Streibel Road a short distance away, and the old Rick's Road, now abandoned with the new relocation.

The road eventually became a major campaign issue in the 1965 election and was officially opposed by present Woodstock supervisor William R. West Jr., who cast the only dissenting vote against its construction when he was a councilman.

What has bothered many observers, other than the fact that neighbors must be wary eyeing neighbors along Rick's Road these days, are the moral implications involved. Many feel that the 12 inches retained on some properties are a penalty against a few and were arrived at undemocratically. They question whether the Town Board, in good moral conscience, should have accepted right of ways which discriminated against any local resident.

It is a moot question since it has now become apparent that the town would have been refused the right of ways in some instances if the Board had not acceded to the 12 inch barrier.

Town Had No Choice

"The town had no choice; could not have had the property otherwise," says Gordon Taylor, one of several residents here who gave the town land to pave the way for Rick's Road. Taylor views the 12 inches simply as personal protection of his property. His relations with his neighbors, unlike those of Simon Feinstein on the other end of the road, have apparently not suffered. Samuel Beck, for example, recently asked and received permission to put a driveway across the 12 inches retained by Taylor in his vicinity.

And there is, of course, always the other side of the coin. While many sympathize with Feinstein and others in the same boat, there are some who feel that far too much abuse has been heaped on those people who willingly gave land for Rick's Road. They point out that all of them together gave land worth thousands of dollars to the town and got nothing for it but the scorn of their neighbors and others. It is unlikely that they would be as eager again to repeat the gift, they say.

While the controversy continues to rage, a new development along Rick's Road has aroused the dubious interest of many. Among the original objections mentioned to the town-built and taxpayer-financed road were that it would benefit only a very few property owners, would interfere with the peace and tranquility of others, and would open up for development one of the most beautiful and undisturbed sections of the only pastorally perfect and as-yet-untouched part of the village remaining today.

It may have done just that. Late last spring, Frank Leon Smith, 333 East 53rd Street, New York City, sold a nine room house and more than 67 acres on the west side of Rick's Road which he had owned for 45 years. The purchaser, according to deeds recorded in the County Clerk's office (Liber 1178, page 398) was Johnson-Murray Corporation, which listed its address as 60 Rick's Lane, Woodstock. Authoritative sources say the corporation name was selected by the new owners, who are reported to be Paul M. Beard, vice-president in charge of sales at Rotron Manufacturing Company here, and James McGowan, manager of marketing research with the same firm.

Witnessed by Comeau

The 67 plus acres purchased from Smith adjoins lands formerly or now owned by Albert Cashdollar and the name of the Attorney involved was not recorded on the deed. There are those who insist on insisting it was Molyneux. The deed was witnessed, however, by attorney Martin F. Comeau, a member of the Woodstock Planning Board.

The obvious question is whether the new owners of the property eventually plan a housing development on the land.

Smith had little to say when he gave up the property he had owned for so many long years. He said only, "I have had to sell out. Friends have advised me: Now's the time to get rid of the old farm. You are getting on and you can't take it with you!" Referring to the petition circulated along Glasco Turnpike last fall against Rick's Road, he said the Town has always needed the road; that the law of change applies and always will, and that Woodstockers must adjust.

The new owners have said that the property, now zoned for two acres, be zoned for three-fourths of an acre, resulted in the verification that no such variance had been asked.

Webster Comments

And, according to Planning Board chairman Benjamin Webster, no official request has been made for subdivision plat regulations on the property. Webster said "the owner" had spoken to him in personal conversation only and had indicated "the possibility of doing something at the Rick's Road address. At the moment, however, all that is being done is renovations to the nine room house on the former Smith property."

One resident who gave land for Rick's said quite pointedly that the reason he had retained 12 inches when deeding to the town was because he worried that a real rash of developments might occur suddenly all along the road from one end to the other. If a development is destined to replace the old Smith farm, smaller plots will not be asked—says one who should know—"because the whole town would rise up in protest." Houses will either be built on two acres or a "cluster development" is another possibility, he said. This means that houses could be clustered together at one or both ends of the tract and the remaining acreage in the middle would be left open for park space.

It is interesting to note that since zoning went into effect in Woodstock, there have been a great number of requests to lower acreage regulations. So-called big time operators are to blame for many of these but so are old-time residents who want to sell out and retire to Florida or elsewhere.

As for Rick's Road itself, it hardly qualifies as a road at all. Started last fall, it is far from finished and anyone intrepid enough to attempt to negotiate its rock-strewn terrain needs a courageous heart, a steel helmet and a seat belt. Many wonder how long it takes to complete a half mile of road as the months pass by on the calendar. One who does not wonder at all is Woodstock's superintendent of highways, William Klementis. Says he in answer to the question, "When will Rick's be completed for use?" "When I feel like it and when I get around to it. Maybe in the fall when I'm not too busy elsewhere."

Jazz in Garden Thursday Night

Ever since jazz came up the river from New Orleans, it has fascinated many an American music lover and student of history. Now, area collectors of jazz memorabilia and records, connoisseurs of Dixieland as it was when it was pure jazz, and all those who would like to become collectors and avid listeners will now have the opportunity right here in Woodstock to enjoy this folk phenomenon.

Performing Arts of Woodstock announces that it is sponsoring a program on "the real thing" this Thursday, from 7 to 8:30 p. m., in the garden of the Woodstock Artists Association, Village Green. The outdoor garden is directly behind the gallery and jazz under the stars has been popular since the days of Mississippi steamboats.

PAW will present Herbert L. Shultz, of Kingston, jazz historian who will bring along his fabulous collection of old records; offer an informal evening of listening as he traces the development of the jazz syndrome from King Oliver on. Shultz is president of the Kingston Club Company and has served as president of the Friends of the Senate House and has written for many music magazines, including Downbeat.

There will be a nominal admission charge for the event and refreshments will be served at what promises to be an entertaining and informative evening.

September Card Party

Woodstock Garden Club will hold a card party Wednesday, Sept. 7, at 1:30 p. m. in St. Gregory's Episcopal Church parish hall. There will be tables for bridge, canasta and scrabble, with attractive table and door prizes. The public is invited and may make reservations before Sept. 1, by calling Mrs. Arthur Jones.

Players are asked to bring their own cards and score pads, and refreshments will be served. A small donation will be asked.

Browns' Finish Enrages Fans, Coach at Atlanta

By HAL BOCK Associated Press Sports Writer

Blanton Collier pleaded for understanding but his Cleveland Browns didn't help the coach's cause very much.

A crowd of 48,548 at Atlanta watched Collier's Browns rout the Falcons 42-3 Saturday night and they didn't like what they saw. For that matter, neither did Atlanta Coach Norb Hecker.

But Collier thought the fans should have been more patient with their first-year National Football League team.

"I beg you to be charitable," he said. "You just can't build a team overnight. The Falcons have a great coaching staff but it will take time to get their boys used to playing together."

Hecker, however, sounded just as angry as the fans.

"We found some things out about some of the boys," the Falcons' coach said. "Twelve or 15 of them will be gone Monday."

Brings Catcalls

The Browns broke open a 14-3 game with 28 points in the final quarter against the Falcons, who brought catcalls from the fans when they stayed with a ground attack in four futile scoring attempts deep in Cleveland territory.

Collier was sympathetic. "Time and patience are the only things that will cure their problems," the Cleveland coach said.

In other NFL exhibitions over the weekend, unbeaten Dallas stunned Green Bay 21-3, New York downed Detroit 17-7, Chicago defeated Washington 24-10, Minnesota whipped Los Angeles 24-10 and Pittsburgh ripped San Francisco 34-17.

20th Win For Koufax

By MURRAY CHASS Associated Press Sports Writer

When Sandy Koufax gets a shot of cortisone, his left elbow feels better and National League batters feel worse.

Koufax, whose arthritic elbow forced him out of a game just four days before, transferred the pain to St. Louis Sunday as he recorded his 20th victory of the season in Los Angeles' 4-1 triumph over the Cardinals.

The 30-year-old southpaw was pitching against Cincinnati last Wednesday night when the pain in his elbow was so great that he had to leave the game in the fifth inning.

He received a shot of cortisone that night and two days later was on the sidelines throwing. After the workout, he said: "I'll pitch Sunday."

That he did. He stopped the Cardinals on six hits, only three after the first inning when the Cardinals scored their run, struck out 10 and achieved the third 20-game season of his career.

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh held a one percentage point lead over San Francisco after whipping Chicago 8-1. The Giants swept Atlanta 9-4. New York won Philadelphia 6-5 and 5-1 and Houston trampled Cincinnati 11-0.

Got Ragged Start

"I just wasn't making the pitches in the first inning," said Koufax, who won 25 games in 1963 and 26 last year.

"But by the third inning I felt good. The elbow felt much better than I expected. I began to tire a bit in the latter innings — you always get tired, but I had enough stuff."

Bob Veale pitched a two-hitter and received support from Pittsburgh's 18-hit attack. Jesse Gonder, Willie Stargell and Manny Mota each lashed four hits, with Gonder driving in three runs. Gonder and Roberto Clemente homered while Billy Williams connected for Chicago.

Wirtz Hits Boosts In Steel, Bank Rates

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz says the recent boost in steel prices and bank interest rates have done more damage to the nation's economy than the new labor contract in the airlines industry.
Wirtz said the airlines settlement, estimated to amount to a 4.9 per cent boost in yearly increased wages and fringe benefits, "hurt very much the stabilization principle."
But he added: "It didn't hurt it nearly as much as the increase in the price of steel. It didn't hurt it nearly so much as the increase in the interest rate."
Prices on some kinds of steel were boosted about $2 to $3 a ton earlier this month. Last week some big city commercial banks raised the prime interest rate to 6 per cent.

Computerized Cupid?
NEW YORK (AP)—Cupid will become computerized in a midtown Manhattan park if Parks Commissioner Thomas P.F. Hoving has his way.
Hoving said Sunday he is negotiating with an established dating service to install the electronic matchmaking system in Bryant Park, a small island of grass and trees behind the main public library, 42nd Street and Fifth Avenue.
Hoving said it is part of the plan to upgrade the park, which has established a curfew and now discourages loitering.
Men and women would use the dating service to help find congenial dates or mates as the case may be.
However, said Hoving: "The city will not be responsible for the looks of the date, the activities of the date, or anything that happens thereafter."

Airliner Takes Nine to Deaths

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Nine persons aboard an Alaska Coastal Airlines plane were killed Sunday when the airliner crashed and burned at the foot of a high peak in the Juneau ice cap about 30 miles north of here.
The crash scene was at the 5,500-foot level near Eagle River glacier.
A helicopter pilot who reached the scene said there appeared to be no possibility of recovering the bodies from the burned wreckage of the twin-engine Grumman Goose amphibian.
Fourteen aircraft took part in the search for the airliner after it disappeared shortly after taking off from Skagway, Alaska, for the 100-mile flight over the edge of the Juneau ice cap.

Javits Gives View Of Rumpus At Vietnik Hearings

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said here Sunday that last week's demonstrations at the hearings of the House Committee on Un-American Activities were "demeaning" to Congress as a whole.
"Disorder is never in order in a committee room," said Javits. He said the functions of the House committee should be taken over by the House Judiciary Committee. In any event, he added, probing matters of opinion has always engendered hostility from Americans.

Coast Guard Will Bring Help to Ailing Skipper

NEW YORK (AP)—A Coast Guard cutter sped today toward Argentina, Nfld., to hospitalize Capt. William Willis, 72, who had been attempting to sail his 11-foot boat solo to England.
A doctor aboard the cutter Ingham, which reached the frail craft Sunday night far out in the foggy Atlantic, diagnosed Willis' ailment as a strangulated hernia — as the sailor had thought when he reported to a passing freighter he was ailing.
The cutter was expected to reach Argentina at 8:30 a.m. EDT Tuesday.
Willis, who sailed the South Pacific alone, left here two months ago today in the Little One — named for his wife, Tess — bound for Plymouth, England.
Asked whether Willis would be taken aboard the cutter and sent to a hospital, a Coast Guard spokesman said the physician "will evaluate and let that guide them."
The Ingham, on a routine trip from Norfolk, Va., to Newfoundland, was directed to Willis when about 150 miles from his given position, 850 miles east of New York and 330 miles south of Cape Race, Nfld.
The cutter had been contacted by the American freighter Sapphire Gladys which spotted Willis and was told he was ill.
The sailboat skipper refused to go aboard the freighter, which was on route to Holland, saying he preferred to wait for the Coast Guard.
Willis was given honorary master's papers by the Coast Guard just before leaving on the voyage.
According to a doctor at Beekman Downtown Hospital, Willis is in "serious trouble" if his self-diagnosis was correct. The doctor said Willis could be "in danger of dying from blood poisoning" or the hernia could become gangrenous.
Willis' boat would have been the smallest to make the eastward Atlantic crossing.
Last year, Robert Manry, a Cleveland, Ohio, newspaperman, sailed his 13-foot Tinkerbelle to Plymouth.
In 1954, Willis sailed across the Pacific in 115 days. On Nov. 10, 1964, he arrived under tow in Sydney, Australia, on a raft, Age Unlimited, after a 204-day, 10,000-mile journey.
Willis has had a life at sea ever since as a young man he shipped out of Hamburg, Germany, on a square rigger which sailed around Cape Horn. He met his wife in 1928 aboard a cruise ship. The couple resides in Manhattan.

Expect Industry Will Turn Down UAW Pay Request

DETROIT (AP)—The auto industry's Big Three indicate they will turn down today a United Auto Workers request that labor contracts be reopened to grant immediate raises to skilled workers.
General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. planned to give their answers to the union this afternoon.
Reply Asked Today
The three biggest car makers hinted during the weekend that they would reject the UAW's request to reopen contracts to talk over wage demands of nearly 100,000 skilled tradesmen. The union asked for a reply by today.
In last-minute news releases, the firms said their 700,000 production workers will get automatic pay hikes totaling $168 million two weeks from now.
Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford, said reopening of the contract would be "inadvisable," and added: "There is a contract and I think they ought to live with it."

Besides the upcoming pay hike, provided for by the contract, the union and industry officials have agreed workers may get an additional one or two cents hourly through cost-of-living escalators in the pact.
Furthermore, the firms said, hourly rated employees will get added hospital-medical benefits Sept. 5.
The UAW wants the labor pacts reopened — they don't expire until Sept. 6, 1967 — to give skilled workers an immediate wage increase of at least 50 cents hourly.
Underpaid Is Charge
The skilled tradesmen said they are underpaid for their work in auto plants in comparison with wages for similar skills elsewhere.
The tradesmen said tool and die makers in auto plants receive $3.97 an hour but they cited wages of $4.63 hourly for carpenters and $5.20 hourly for electricians in the Detroit area.
There were indications the 600,000 unskilled and semiskilled production workers would ask for the right to bargain over new wages if contracts were reopened.
Officers of the largest UAW local in the country, Ford Local 600, told UAW President Walter

P. Reuther in a letter, "We would be unable to explain to the men and women on the production line if they do not share in any gains made by our union."
A threat of work stoppages would come with any discontent within the workers' ranks.
Today's decision on contracts comes just at the time when 1967 cars are beginning to roll off assembly lines to meet early buyer rushes.
